SOCIETY WOMAN HELD GUILTY OF TORTURING GIRL

Jury Wants Mrs. McKinney Sent to Asylum, Thence to Penitentiary.

SHE SHOWS NO EMOTION

Receives Verdict of Peoria, Ill., Jurors in Stolid Silence.

WILL ASK NEW TRIAL

Sensational Testimony Substantiated Charge of Cruelty to Ward.

PEORIA, Ill., June 23.—The jury in the case of the State against Mrs. Mary L. McKinney, prominent society woman, charged with cruelty to her ward, Stella Grady, returned a verdict of guilty this morning and recommended that the prisoner be sent to the Insane Asylum at Chester until she recovers and then be compelled to serve two years in the Penitentiary.

The jury found that Mrs. McKinney was at present insane. The trial has been the most sensational ever held in the Peoria County Circuit Court, and has occupied two weeks.

The attorneys for Mrs. McKinney will ask for a new trial on the grounds that the verdict of the jury was contrary to the State law, which especially provides that an insane person shall not be tried for the commission of a crime.

The jury took six ballots. They followed the instructions of the court in regard to the insane phase of the case.

Mrs. McKinney is out on $1500 bonds. She probably will be sentenced Monday. She exhibited no emotion when the verdict was announced.

Child's Awful Suffering.

Mrs. McKinney was prominent in Northern Illinois Society and was well known to club women in other states. The indictment charging her with terrible cruelty to Stella Grady, 14 years old, whom Mrs. McKinney and her husband had taken from a home for homeless and friendless girls, caused a sensation in club circles, but was not especially surprising to her immediate friends.

The testimony showed that Mrs. McKinney made of the girl an especial target for the most inhuman cruelty. More than 200 scars on the child's body showed where she had been stabbed with a toasting fork and shears. Bloody garments were introduced to prove other and more serious cruelties.

It was shown that it was the common practice to strike the girl with a poker, slap her, jab at her eyes and, in general, make the life of the child miserable. She was forced to go without adequate clothing and sleep in a cold, unfurnished room. When the family was out of town she was barred from the house and forced to sleep wherever she could find a place.

COUDREY SEATED WOOD OUSTED

House Adopts Report of Committee on Twelfth District Representative.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Representative Ernest E. Wood, the Democratic member (he was a member until a few minutes ago), from the Twelfth District in St. Louis, was not present today to witness his retirement from the House of Representatives. Had he been present he would have had to pay very close attention to the proceedings to discover that he was being kicked out. It all happened in a second and there was not a single vote cast in Mr. Wood's favor. Soon after the convening of the House, Chairman Olmstead of the Election Committee was recognized by Speaker Cannon and read the following report:

Committee on Election No. 2, to whom was referred the contested elections case of Harry M. Coudrey vs. Ernest E. Wood from the Twelfth Congressional District of Missouri respectfully submit the following report:

After due consideration of the case we recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That Ernest E. Wood was not elected to membership in the House of Representatives of the Fifty-ninth Congress, and is not entitled to a set therein.

Resolved, That Harry M. Coudrey was elected to membership in the House of Representatives of the United States in the Fifty-ninth Congress, and is entitled to a seat therein.

It was expected there would be some discussion on the resolution. As a general rule two or three hours' debate follows such a resolution, but in this case there was not even a rollcall and when "Uncle Joe" called for the "ayes" and "noes" there was not a single "no" heard.

A few minutes later Coudrey appeared in the chamber and was sworn in. He took a temporary seat near Representative Bartholdt and was soon surrounded by Republicans congratulating him.

Coudrey will receive salary from March 4, 1905, and also $2000 extra to cover his part of the contest. Wood's salary will also be paid.

No Beer, No Bricklaying.

Four bricklayers, two of them from St. Louis, quit work because Albert Fahrig, a contractor at Edwardsville, refused to allow a case of beer to be delivered to them while they were at work on a building. Fahrig had reproved the men for sending so often for buckets of beer while at work and told them they might as well have a keg in the middle of the building. The workmen then ordered a case of beer, and quit when their employer objected.

FURIOUS RIDE IN STREETS

Garage Workman Wildly Dashes Vehicle Into Depot Abutments.

CRASHES INTO WAGONS

Frank D. Seward's Auto Smashed, Chauffeur Picked Up Uninjured.

Edward Murphy, a washer employed by an automobile company, made a most spectacular ride Saturday morning in an automobile owned by Frank D. Seward, treasurer of the National Candy Co.

He landed in the holdover, and the $4000 machine, after turning a somersault in front of Union Station, was hurled against the abutments of the big stone pile and reduced to a tangled and hopeless wreck.

Persons along the line of Murphy's wide ride were terror-stricken and policemen were unable to check him until the crash came.

Murphy is 27 years old and lives at 814 Market street. Mr. Seward's automobile is kept in a garage at 3667 Olive street. Murphy took the machine out at 1 a. m. Saturday, but was not observed until 9 o'clock, when he was speeding west on Chestnut street at Nineteenth street.

The machine was under full head of power and in a trice was out of sight. The mad speed continued to Jefferson avenue and without slowing up a turn was made to the south. Pedestrians had narrow escapes and policemen's clubs raised threateningly aloft were unheeded by the chauffeur.

South on Jefferson avenue the big machine sped to Walnut and east on that thoroughfare to Fifteenth street, where a turn to the north was made. At Chestnut street the chauffeur again turned west and in a moment made a dash to Jefferson avenue and south again to Clark avenue.

Dashes to Station.

Then the machine was directed straight ahead. When the Union Station loomed up in front, no apparent effort was made to avoid it.

The front wheels struck the curbing. The machine careened to one side, and executed a somersault, crashed up against the stone abutments and was wrecked. Murphy was hurled out, but was picked up practically uninjured. He was taken into custody and escorted to the Four Courts.

Before wrecking the machine Murphy had collisions with two wagons. The first occurred at Twenty-first and Chestnut streets when a farm wagon was run down, and later an express vehicle was struck at Twentieth street and Clark avenue.

J. MacNish of the automobile company where Mr. Seward's machine was kept, called at the Four Courts Saturday and consulted Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Thomas. It was decided that there was no law that would permit of a criminal prosecution, and it was decided to send Murphy to the Police Court on a charge of being drunk.

RAIN WILL STAY WITH US SUNDAY

Weather Man Sees More Showers—No Colder.

Mackintoshes and umbrellas will increase in popularity Saturday and Sunday, if the weather forecaster's prognostications be verified. The forecast:

"Showers tonight and Sunday; moderate temperature."

The forecaster sees further showers in store Saturday night and Sunday, and a visit of the rain clouds that extend over the State is expected at intervals. Moderate temperature will continue to prevail, according to the prediction.

The showers of Saturday morning brought a rainfall of .55 inch, and telegraphic reports from all over the State indicate that the rain was general.

Locked Up for Not Reporting.

Paul Schupp, alias Joe Sheppard, 34 years old, who served six years in the Missouri Penitentiary for complicity in the robbery of a train near Kansas City by "Quail Hunter" Kennedy and his gang, awoke Saturday after a night spent on the hard benches of the holdover at the Four Courts for not having reported his presence in St. Louis to the police. Schupp has been employed in a shoe factory. He says he is living straight. There is no charge against him.

PASTOR TO ASK DIVORCE; PARISH INDORSES HIM

Rev. Earl Hewson Says Wife's Jealousy Caused Their Separation.

WILL KEEP LITTLE GIRL

Says He Took Child From Family With Which She Had Been Left.

NURSED BY PARISHIONERS

Scene of Strife at Parsonage When Women Attended Sick Minister.

Rev. Earl Hewson, pastor of the Reber Place Congregational Church, who, according to his own statement, is soon to file suit for divorce against his wife, Gertrude Hewson, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Saturday that unwarranted jealousy on her part was the sole cause of their separation.

Rev. Hewson's marital troubles became public when his congregation took official cognizance of it by passing a resolution indorsing him.

Attendance of women members of the congregation upon Rev. Mr. Hewson when he was ill is referred to by both husband and wife in explanation of their trouble.

Mrs. Hewson said, "When my husband was taken ill at the house some time ago two women, who belong to the church, stayed at the house and waited on him all night in spite of my protests. They even went to my husband's room with water and towels and washed his face. I protested, and tried to take the water and towels from them. There was a struggle in the kitchen, but they went. My husband told me I was foolish to be jealous of them."

Men Also His Nurses.

Pastor Hewson said: "At the time I was ill there were three men of the church, besides the two women members, at my house. The men were there all the time. The women waited on me only because I did not think my wife was well enough to. There was nothing at which she should take offense."

Pastor Hewson is at present boarding at the home of Mrs. Fannie Sleight, a member of his church, at 2739 Dalton avenue, just two blocks from the home where he and his wife lived after his ordination as pastor of the church last March. Mrs. Hewson, who spends much of her time at the Park Hotel with friends, is living with her aunt, Miss Amanda Farnsworth, at 3609 Finney avenue.

They were married Sept. 6, 1900, at the home of the bride's parents, 2008 North Ninth street, and separated seven weeks ago.

Pastor Hewson said Saturday:

"I kept my own counsel in this matter and prayed over it until I felt that an attorney should be consulted.

"It grieves me to see that Mrs. Hewson has been the first to lay the whole trouble before the public. I feel that in duty to my congregation I must make some statements in answer to the charges she has publicly made against me.

"I understand that she says a bottle of arsenic was found in her trunk after I had sent it to her. That trunk was packed by four members of my congregation, and they will willingly swear that there was no bottle of any kind in the trunk.

"So far as her being penniless is concerned, I feel that I must tell the public, especially the members of my flock who have stood so faithfully by me in this my fiery trial, that I have given her one-third of my salary since we separated, and, besides, am paying for the care of our little girl, Gertrude Earl, whom she says I stole from her.

"As to her charge of my taking little Gertrude against her wish, I may say that Mrs. Hewson took Gertrude, nearly three years old, to the home of Mrs. Weddendorf at Sappington, St. Louis County. She left little Gertrude there and said nothing about returning for her. They naturally telephoned to me and I went and got the precious little one. I have kept her since and shall continue to care for her.

"I have held long conferences with different ministers and lay brethren, and the suit for divorce, which I shall file, was decided upon after much prayer and consideration on my part.

One Minister Hostile.

"One minister only has been hostile to me and has done everything in his power to harm me and injure my standing with my people. There is no truth in the rumor that a committee of ministers has been chosen to look into my family affairs, so far as I have been able to ascertain.

"I have made up my mind that a suit for divorce is the only manly and Christian way of justifying myself and proving to the world that the charges against me by my wife are false.

"She has always been outrageously jealous. When I pasted a picture of myself and the church building in my paper weight, she became infuriated at me because I didn't use her picture instead of the church's, and didn't speak a pleasant word to me for more than 24 hours after.

"When I went out to Sappington she refused to see me. She told me and members of my congregation that she never intended to return. That was not the first time that she left me. Several other times she left notes, saying that Church Resolution Indorsing Pastor.

Whereas, our pastor and teacher, Rev. Earl Hewson, is passing through afflictions of the most aggravating form in the unhappy condition of his home affairs; and, whereas, we know he has endured his sorrows with manly and Christian spirit until he was broken in health and his life itself was despaired of before making any move to defend or protect himself;

Therefore be it resolved (1) That we express to our pastor our deep sympathy, and pledge to him our faith, confidence and loyalty; (2) that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this church.

POLICE CHASE MAN IN CROWD ON BROADWAY

Had Silverware Under His Coat Which He Tried to Sell.

RESISTED WHEN CAUGHT

Police Believe Fugitive Has Committed Many Burglaries Lately.

John Young, believed by the police to be the man who has committed several recent West End burglaries, was pursued through downtown streets for four blocks by policemen and a crowd of 200 men and boys at the lunch hour Saturday. He was caught near Fourth and Chestnut streets, outside the Planters Hotel.

He resisted arrest and had to be overpowered. As he was being taken to the Chestnut Street Station he wrested himself partially free from Policeman O'Brien at the corner of the Merchants' Exchange, and struck at Louis Ludwig, who had caused the pursuit and capture.

Lewis, who is in business at 623 Morgan street, bought two silver cups Friday from Young. Later two detectives who visited his store told him the cups had been stolen and advised him to have the man arrested if ever he saw him again.

Saturday at noon Ludwig was standing at Seventh and Morgan streets, when young came up to him and asked him if he wanted to buy any more silverware. Ludwig said he did not and Young passed on. Ludwig followed him, looking for a policeman. At Sixth and Olive streets he saw Policeman Corcoran. Ludwig pointed out Young and told Corcoran to arrest him. The policeman started after Young, who looked around and saw the policeman coming and broke into a run.

Chase Through Broadway.

Corcoran and Ludwig went in pursuit. Men and boys joined in the chase. Young turned east on Pine street. Half way to Olive street he passed Policeman O'Brien, who supposed Young was running to catch a car until Ludwig, who was ahead of Corcoran, ran up to him and pointing to Young, told O'Brien the running man was a burglar.

O'Brien joined in the chase. Young turned south on Broadway. At Chestnut street, seeing that O'Brien and Ludwig were gaining on him, he took to the street.

Deputy Sheriff Kreh, standing in front of the Courthouse, saw him coming down the middle of the street with a crowd in pursuit. He ran out and attempted to head Young off, but the fugitive dodged over toward the Planters. Kreh made a grab at him and slipped to his knees. Regaining his feet he joined in the chase and he and Policeman O'Brien and Ludwig overtook the man near Fourth street.

Young made an attempt to resist, but was quickly overpowered, and O'Brien started with him toward the Chestnut Street Station. As the corner of the Merchants' Exchange was reached, Young jerked his right arm loose and made an attempt to strike Ludwig, but O'Brien restrained him.

A hasty search had been made of him and a large silver fruit dish, concealed under his coat, had been taken from him. This was carried to the station, where a more thorough search was made, which resulted in the finding of an electric flash light, a pocket knife and other pocket articles.

Young said he had been stopping at the De Soto House. At the station his anger toward Ludwig for causing his arrest, caused him to betray his guilt. Ludwig was telling about having bought the silver cups from him when Young turned toward him and said: "Yes, you bought two pieces of stolen goods."

FIREMEN RESCUE MAN.

Firemen Hannis and Durkin rescued R. L. Pemberson from a third-story room in the house at 2012 Locust street Friday afternoon, when he was in danger of being suffocated. A still alarm had been given to Engine Company No. 32, and when the firemen reached the scene, Capt. Boland caused an alarm to be sounded.

Pemberton was seen in the third-story room, from which all way of escape had been closed by the flames. Capt. Boland ordered Hannis and Durkin to raise a ladder to the window and Pemberson was carried to safety by the firemen. The damage was slight.

FOLK TO DIRECT SUITS TO SMASH STATE ICE TRUST

Governor Prepares Letters to Prosecuting Attorneys Calling Attention to Increased Prices and Consequent Suffering, and Ordering Them to Investigate and Act.

60 PER CENT INCREASE BY ST. LOUIS DEALERS

Small Consumer Obliged to Pay $8 a Ton, $2 in Excess of Maximum Last Year—Cost of Manufacture Still $1 a Ton, Experts Say.

COST OF MAKING AND PRICE OF ICE THIS YEAR AND LAST

To housekeeper, this year, 100 pounds	40c
To housekeeper, 1905, 100 pounds	25c to 30c
To large consumer, this year, 100 pounds	15c to 25c
To large consumer, 1905, 100 pounds	15c to 20c
Cost of ice production, 100 pounds	5c

Following receipt of many complaints from St. Louis and other cities and towns in the State that the price of ice has increased this season between 50 and 60 per cent, Gov. Folk will mail a letter Saturday night to the prosecuting authorities of St. Louis and of other cities and towns calling their attention to the indications of an Ice Trust in the State and directing them to investigate and bring suit if the facts justify it.

In St. Louis ice has reached a maximum price of $8 a ton, which is $2 more than a year ago. Dealers blame it on the small natural supply, due to the mild winter, but big consumers say almost no natural ice is sold here and the cost of making ice is about $1 a ton, the same this year as for several years past.

The Governor said in Jefferson City Saturday that he had been receiving complaints from different parts of the State, especially from St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph. It has been represented to him that the supply of ice is controlled by a trust or combination of the ice manufacturers, and that by agreement the price has been so largely increased.

He has been told that the advance in price in Missouri is in keeping with an agreement between the ice manufacturers of the United States and that it is by no means confined to small local agreements in the different cities. Instead, it has been represented to him that the trust embraces nearly all the ice manufactured in the United States and that the price has been raised in other states as well as in Missouri.

In his letter the Governor will call attention to the suffering caused among the poor as an advance in the price of ice is made an excuse of increasing the cost of meat, vegetables and produce of all kinds.

He will suggest to the prosecuting attorneys that they institute legal proceedings in the different counties and cities for the forfeiture of the charters of the corporations in the combine, and the dissolution of the trust by order of court. The Governor will also tell the prosecuting attorneys that he will give them all the assistance in his power in their investigations and prosecutions.

It is the smallest consumer who has to stand the largest increase in cost in St. Louis, while some of the largest consumers are able to buy at the same price as last year, 15 cents a hundred pounds, or $3 a ton. But the large consumers are made to feel the power of what they term the Ice Trust, by having to enter into a contract for three years at these figures.

Last year the small consumer, the housewife who bought a piece of ice large enough to fill her refrigerator, and the family that could use ice only when sickness compelled, could buy it for 30 cents a hundred pounds. This year the ice dealers laid their hand heavily on customers in this class. They raised the price to 40 cents a hundred, and unblushingly intimated that this price was only for the time being. The price might be raised at any time within the month, with only a day's notice, they intimated.

Must Enter Into Contract.

Business establishments that use large quantities of ice have been made to pay tribute as heavy as the ice dealers thought they would bear. One establishment that all last season used 10 tons of ice per week obtained it at 15 cents per hundred weight, or $3 per ton. This year the same concern has to pay 20 cents per hundred, or $4 per ton, and must enter into a contract to take ice for a year at this advanced price or be refused the privilege of buying ice at any price.

Another establishment that uses more than 1000 pounds of ice per day suffered a similar raise in the cost, although it paid last year a price that was considered high. This man paid 25 cents per hundred last year, and now he pays 35 cents, and was compelled to make a contract for a year.

The larger restaurants and hotels, by combining, have managed to obtain ice at practically the same price they did last year, 15 cents per hundred, or $3 per ton. But they have had to enter three-year contracts to obtain this price. All of the large restaurants and hotels were notified early in the season that the figure was to be raised. The men at the heads of the hotels and restaurants got together and at once took steps to organize an independent ice plant to furnish all of the members. The ice dealers at first laughed at the efforts of the restaurant men to escape them. But shortly the money was in sight to erect the plant, and the ice dealers assumed a new position.

The restaurant men could not hope to get their plant in operation until the season was nearly over. The ice dealers met them half way and agreed to give ice at the price paid last year, namely, $3 per ton. Most of the hotels and restaurants entered into such contracts. They are now bound by three-year agreements, and the chances for the independent ice plant have gone glimmering.

Consumers Refute Plea.

The ice dealers mainain that the raise in price was due to the fact that last winter no ice was harvested, and the cost of the ice is greater than in the past. Large consumers, who have made

U. S. TO TRY TO JAIL OIL TRUST HEADS

Series of Criminal Prosecutions to Be Instituted by Government.

FIRST IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Then St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph and Springfield Suits Will Follow.

AFTER RAILROADS ALSO

Administration Says They're Guilty of Rebating and Must Be Punished.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—According to plans announced yesterday evening by Attorney-General Moody, the Standard Oil Co. officers will be busy from now on trying to keep themselves out of the Penitentiary. The trust itself will be occupied in an effort to keep itself on earth.

Uncle Sam is to institute a series of criminal prosecutions against the Oil Trust and its officials. Some of the suits will be filed shortly in St. Louis, East St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph and Springfield courts. The Government plan has not been fully worked out yet, but it may be stated that the most important cases in the Middle West will be instituted in East St. Louis.

The Illinois cases will deal with what has become known as the "Whiting rate" since the Garfield report was made public. The district attorneys of the respective districts will assist the Department of Justice in the preparation and trial of the cases, and Messrs. Morrison and Kellogg, who have been retained as special counsel, according to the announcement of the administration, will visit the districts and co-operate with the district attorneys.

To Urge Jail Sentence.

In the cases which the Attorney-General has in view, but which he declines to name in advance of the prosecution, he hopes to obtain a sentence either of fine or imprisonment, and in all instances where the case is covered by the statutes he will instruct the District Attorneys to press for a jail sentence.

A further investigation of the Standard Oil Co. will be begun at once by counsel employed by the Government. This will be an entirely separate investigation, and bears no relation to the prosecutions of individuals under the criminal statutes already decided upon. The object of the special inquiry will be to determine whether any action will lie against the Standard for violation of the antitrust laws.

It is expected that the criminal actions to be brought by the Attorney-General will vary according to individual cases, but in general they will have to do with the acceptance of freight rebates by the Standard Oil Co. and the granting of these rebates by railway companies.

The Attorney-General made the following statement in regard to the decision of Judge McPherson against the Armour, Swift, Morris and Cudahy packing companies, the Burlington Railroad and the individual defendants, Taggart and Thomas:

"The conspiracy was for obtaining rebates on a large scale, making discriminations to shippers highly injurious to the public welfare. The methods used in concealing the true nature of the transaction showed clearly that the defendants willfully, knowingly and deliberately sought to defy the law, and were a gross contempt of its prohibitions. After giving it careful consideration, I concluded that the extent of the discriminations practiced showed that it was a case where the sentence of imprisonment was especially desirable, and I directed the District Attorney to urge on the court, in case of their conviction, the desirability of such a sentence."

Mr. Thomas and Mr. Taggart left today for their homes in New York.

Picnic at Fern Glen.

The fourth annual picnic of the Laclede Gas Light Co.'s employes will be held at Fern Glen on the Meramec River, Sunday, June 24. Meals can be obtained upon the ground if so desired. Free lemonade for ladies and children. There will be baseball and athletic games for both sexes, also dancing and good music.

Missouri Pacific trains leave Union station 9 a. m. and 11 a. m., returning leave Fern Glen 5 and 7 p. m. Tickets 50c round trip, children under 12 free. Tickets can be secured at Union Station Sunday.

MAY BE PROSECUTED.

Federal Grand Jury Will Take Up Rebate Maters.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 23.—Proceedings may be brought against the shoe and dry goods merchants of St. Louis, Omaha and Kansas City on a charge of accepting rebates from railways secured for them by George L. Thomas, a New York freight broker, who, with his chief clerk, L. B. Taggart, were in the Federal Court here yesterday, fined and given a penitentiary sentence. These firms, numbering seven, were mentioned by Judge Smith McPherson in sentencing Thomas and Taggart. He declared that the rebate-taker was a guilty as the rebate-giver.

"I assume that these concerns will be proceeded against for receiving these unlawful rebates, which can be done either by indictment or information," he said.

While not admitting that such action would be begun against these merchants, A. S. Van Valkenburgh, the District Attorney who prosecuted the cases, intimated that the matter would be brought to the attention of the grand jury next fall.

O. M. Spencer, general solicitor for the Burlington Railroad, who fought against the latter's conviction, as well as for Thomas and Taggart, said today:

"If the statement of Attorney-General Moody is true it will be very embarrassing to try future cases of this kind in Missouri and have the judgment rendered by the Attorney-General. I refer particularly to the Attorney-General's statement that, 'after giving it careful consideration, I conclude that the extent of the discriminations practiced showed that it was a case where the sentence of imprisonment was especially desirable, and I directed the District Attorney to urge on the court, in case of their conviction, the desirability of such a sentence.'"

Mr. Thomas and Mr. Taggart left today for their homes in New York.

ALTON "WILD GIRL" ESCAPED FROM HOSPITAL THREE TIMES

PASTOR TO ASK DIVORCE; PARISH INDORSES HIM

she had gone and would never return to me.

"When she refused to see me to talk over our difficulties there was nothing left for me to do but to sit down and write to her what she would not listen to.

Left Home for Rest.

Mrs. Gertrude Hewson, when seen Saturday at the home of her aunt on Finney avenue, said that she would test her husband's suit for divorce and try to have possession of the child awarded to her. She added that she would be glad of reconciliation, but her husband seemed unwilling.

She says that when she went to Sappington April 16 it was because he and members of his congregation insisted that she should go there for a little rest.

When she had occasion to come into the city to see her aunt, she says that members of the Weddendorf family insisted that she should leave the baby with them. She did so and says that before she returned from St. Louis they had telephoned to her husband to come and get the child and he had done so.

He visited her April 23, she says, and was kind and good then and told her that when he returned from a trip to Iberia, where he was to attend a church conference, he would come and get her. She says she has found that he did not go to Iberia.

"We lived very happily together until we went to live at 5442 South Reber place," said Mrs. Hewson. "Three months after we went there to live he began to get cold and indifferent toward me, and as time passed his coldness and indifference increased. At the same time his friendliness toward members of the congregation increased."

Mrs. Hewson went of the Park Hotel from Sappington and when her trunk was sent to her from her husband's home she says she found a bottle of arsenic solution in the tray, wrapped in the baby's jacket.

Mrs. Hewson says she went to 2739 Dalton avenue last Saturday, where her husband is living with the Sleight family and where the 3-year-old child is being kept. The child was in the yard. When she saw her mother she ran to Mrs. Hewson and threw her arms around her neck. Mrs. Hewson says that Mrs. Boisseller and Fannie Sleight took the child from her arms and carried her screaming into the house.

Mrs. Hewson says her husband's sister, Annie Hewson, has told her that the child is sick. She says her husband has written a letter to her aunt, Miss Farnsworth, telling her that Mrs. Hewson will only make more trouble for herself by coming to the Sleight home.

Champagne and Speeches at Breaking of Ground for Sanitol Building.

Excavating was begun Saturday for the splendid new building at Boyle and Laclede avenues for the Sanitol Laboratory Co.

Herman C. G. Luyties, president of the Sanitol Co., with a gilded spade, bedecked with ribbons, turned the first earth in the presence of the vice-president, Dr. A. B. Bowman and the family of employes. Others present were George W. Hellmuth, the architect of the building; Mr. Spahr of the Fabers Lithographing Co., H. E. Lesan, John Guilly Cole of the Lesan Advertising Co., and Mr. Keller of the Keller Printing Co. Short addresses were made by Mr. Luyties and Mr. Bowman, and champagne was drunk to the health of the Sanitol Co.

The new building will be the most complete of its kind in the West.

"WILD GIRL" HAS ALTON RELATIVES

When Captured Molly McGuire Was in a Barn Belonging to Her Aunt.

Molly Maguire, the "wild girl" captured at Alton, escaped three times from the County Hospital at Edwardsville Friday night, but was recaptured and is now in solitary confinement in a cell.

On the girl's arrival, Supt. O. H. Herman assigned her to quarters with a number of other patients. She was missed a short time afterward and employes found her roaming about the grounds.

She was returned to the hospital and a nurse was told to keep an eye on her, but the strange girl escaped the attache's vigilance and was discovered outside the hospital reservation.

Supt. Hermann placed her in charge of a special nurse, but Molly Maguire was shrewd enough to again get away, and when the alarm was sounded, she was nowhere about the place. Finally she was taken into custody in the town, where, she said, she was seeking her brothers.

The girl was then put in a cell. Supt. Hermann saying he would take no more chances with her. It is expected that an inquiry into her sanity will be opened.

The "wild girl" created a scene on the interurban car in which she was being taken from Alton to Edwardsville by Deputy Sheriff George Russell, and passengers appealed to the crew to turn back, fearing that she would resort to physical violence.

She berated the deputy in harsh language, denouncing him for keeping her in custody. She evidently understood that she was going to be placed in restraint, and she urged her custodian to free her. When he refused, she berated him roundly.

"Molly" Maguire is her true name and it developed Saturday that Mrs. Jeremiah Springer, owner of the barn where she had rested on a pile of corn husks is her aunt.

The girl has a number of distant relatives in Alton, but they apparently desire to have nothing to do with her.

Her father formerly was an oiler for the E. O. Stanard Milling Co., but left the city some time ago, and his present location is not known in Alton.

Molly Maguire has been roaming about the woods and hills near Alton for two months. Many saw, but none recognized her. They believed she was actually wild, and children and women were afraid of her.

People who knew her say her mind seems affected. It is said that before she took to the woods she was not mentally perfect.

BAILEY FINDS THE MEAT BILL FAULTY

Wants an Amendment to Correct What He Deems Is a Serious Defect.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—That there is a fatal defect in the meat inspection provision of the agricultural appropriation bill as it came from the House of Representatives, is the opinion of Senator Bailey, as expressed in the Senate today when consideration of Senator Proctor's motion to send the bill to conference was resumed.

He based his criticisms on the clause relating to the inspection of stock entering the packing houses, saying that it imposes a police supervision that the Federal Government cannot exercise. He suggested that the provision should be made to read so as to make it unlawful to transport from one State to another any beef or beef-products that have not been inspected as provided for by law.

CAULFIELD NAMED ON FIRST BALLOT

Twenty-Seventh Ward Man Nominated for Congress by Republicans.

RIECHMANN CHAIRMAN

Choice Made Unanimous—Bogy and Others Get Votes.

Henry S. Caulfield was nominated for Congress at the Eleventh District Republican convention Saturday.

On the first ballot he received 54 votes. G. W. Davidson received 17, T. J. Stanton 11 and B. P. Bogy 6.

The nomination of Caulfield was made unanimous.

State Senator George W. Riechmann was chosen permanent chairman of the convention, which was called to order at the Northwest Lieton avenue, at 10 a. m. N. A. Polito was chosen secretary and Mike Lange was named sergeant-at-arms.

No contest was made over the seating of any delegations. Jeptha D. Howe, chairman of the City Committee, was present, but he announced that he was there only as a spectator.

William T. Findly placed in nomination Henry S. Caulfield of the Twenty-seventh Ward. H. A. Hamilton nominated George W. Davidson.

Dr. Henry Lloyd placed the name of Thomas J. Stanton before the convention, and Chester H. Kern, in a speech denouncing the committee, placed the name of Bernard P. Bogy before the convention.

At a meeting of the Congressional Committee Friday night State Chairman Niedringhaus made an address eulogizing Henry S. Caulfield and urging the members of the committee to support him for the nomination. The members of the committee decided to go into the convention unpledged.

The conventions Friday for the nomination of delegates to the convention passed off quietly, there being but one contest, in the Twenty-sixth Ward. Here the delegation put up by City Committeeman Louis Yengst was elected over that filed by Thomas S. Hauk by a vote of 292 to 143.

HUNT SAYS HE WILL "MAKE THINGS HUM."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Representative John T. Hunt says he will "make things hum" in the Eleventh Missouri Congressional District when he goes back to St. Louis after Congress adjourns. With reference to his withdrawal as a candidate for the nomination to run as an independent, Mr. Hunt told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he would stand by whatever action may have been taken by his secretary, Mr. Brennan.

"I have known for months," said Hunt "that the Congressional Committee was stacked against me. I have waited to see how far they would go. I am not the man to have the brace run into me and the bit broken off, and I'd rather roll a barrel all around the old Eleventh than have it said that I had sacrificed my self-respect to any 18 men that ever walked.

"My representatives out there have my complete indorsement for all they are doing. We may not be politicians, but that committee can't mace me. My opinion is that the committeemen were elected committeemen and I was elected Congressman. I will neither be mulcted nor double-crossed by them.

"I was willing to go before the people at a primary, but I assume that my friends made up their minds that there was no chance for a square deal. I will not play a dirty game at home or play in with the rotten circle here to make money to feed hungry maws."

ATTACKED WHILE MAKING ARREST

East Side Man Accused of Attempt to Kill a Policeman.

John Coady is locked up in the East St. Louis Police Station charged with attempting to kill Policeman Thomas Robinson while the latter was trying to arrest Coady on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct. The complaint was made by Coady's wife, and the arrest was made after a battle in Coady's home, in which the policeman says he was forced to knock him down three times after he had cut him with a knife.

Friday night Mrs. Coady telephoned to the police station that her husband was intoxicated and had run her and her family out of the house with a revolver. They live at 508 West Missouri avenue. Robinson was sent to arrest Coady, and found him in the possession of the house, defying anyone to enter.

As Robinson entered the house Coady leveled the revolver at him, but the patrolman knocked it out of his hands with his club. Coady then attacked him with a knife, the policeman alleges, cutting a gash in his wrist and slashing his coat. Robinson then knocked Coady down three times before he would submit to arrest.

Robinson charges that Mrs. Coady and her two daughters then ran in and pinioned his arms and held him by the neck, allowing Coady to jerk loose and again attack him with the knife. Robinson ran downstairs and telephoned to the police station for assistance. Sergt. Wilson soon arrived and Coady was taken to the station.

He will be given a preliminary examination Saturday afternoon.

BIGGER DETAIL AT CLUB.

In the face of Judge Tracy's ruling given Friday in the City Hall Police Court, that the Hibernia Literary and Social Club was a bona fide club, Acting Chief of Police Gillaspy Saturday increased the number of policemen who are guarding the place from two to four.

"With all due respect to the Court's decision," said Chief Gillaspy Saturday, "the police will remain right where they are. It will be a case of who can stand it the longest, the club or the police. There is no persecution or favoritism. This club is receiving the same treatment as the 200 other clubs. They will have to obtain saloon keepers' licenses, or get out of the business."

HUSER DROPS HIS SUIT.

The divorce suit of Carl L. W. Huser against his wife, Bertha, was withdrawn Saturday in the Circuit Court. The suit was filed a week ago, and a reconciliation between the man and wife was announced Friday.

The Husers lived a 1370? Arkansas avenue prior to their separation. It is announced that they have gone to New York.

CLOTHING MISER STOLE GARMENTS

Tailor Arrested by Police Had Twenty-One Suits Hidden in His Room.

HAD 25 FANCY VESTS TOO

Admits Stealing Articles, but Says He Did Not Intend to Sell Them.

Chief of Detectives Desmond thinks he has found a clothing miser in the person of Louis Fox of 914 North Thirteenth street, who, with his 11-year-old son, Sam, was arrested Friday night by Detectives McFarland, Finan, Cremin and Callahan. In his home, hidden in mattresses, closets and trunks the detectives found 21 suits of clothes, 25 fancy vests, four overcoats, 16 pairs of socks, five shirts, six pairs of suspenders, five pairs of gloves, 12 handkerchiefs, four pairs of cuff buttons and a quantity of neckties and belts.

Fox admits stealing the articles from the High-Art Clothing Co., 205 North Broadway, where he is employed as a tailor. He has been systematically robbing the firm for the past year.

The fact that all the clothing is the size worn by Fox bears out his statement that he never intended selling the stolen articles. He wore only a few of the garments and then only on one or two occasions. He took a delight in pulling the plunder from the various hiding places almost nightly and carefully inspecting them, as a miser does his gold. He kept them in moth balls to preserve them.

Every day Sam Fox carried dinner to his father in a basket and nearly every day when the boy returned home the basket, supposed to be empty, contained stolen property which the father would place there, taking care to cover it with paper and dishes.

Clothing Carried in Basket.

In some manner neighbors of Fox discovered that Sam was bringing home clothing and then tongues began to wag and word reached detective headquarters. Friday evening Detectives McFarland and Finan, standing at Twelfth street and Franklin avenue, saw Sam Fox on his way home, carrying his basket. Sam stopped in front of a cooning store window and lifting the paper from his basket, began comparing a Tuxedo which he was carrying with one in the window.

He was placed under arrest and escorted to his home, where the detectives remained until the father arrived. The house was then searched and the plunder was recovered.

"Did you intend to sell this stuff?" asked Chief Desmond.

"No," Fox replied.

"Were you going to wear it?"

"No."

"Well, what were you going to do with it?"

"Just keep it."

SAYS GIRL CALLS ON PHONE AGAIN

Second Summons Is Issued for Miss Fernandez, Stenographer.

A second summons to appear before Judge Pollard on a charge of disturbing the peace of Edward S. Plummer was issued Saturday by City Attorney Anderson against Miss W. J. Fernandez, a public stenographer in the Chemical Building. Plummer, a postage stamp dealer, made complaint that Miss Fernandez had been annoying him again by calling him by telephone.

Plummer has an office with his son-in-law, James A. Parks, an accountant, in the Colonial Security Building.

Miss Fernandez was fined $5 and costs by Judge Pollard Wednesday after Plummer had testified before a jury that she had called him up 44 times one day on the telephone to ask payment of a debt, which she alleged Parks owed her. Plummer explained he was partially deaf and had to tie a piece of paper to the telephone bell to know when it was ringing. He also testified he had to call some one from an adjoining office to answer for him. Miss Fernandez testified that the calls did not number more than two or three a day, and appealed the case.

ALUMNI GIVE BANQUET.

Four Hundred Guests at High School Function.

The largest banquet ever given by the East St. Louis High School Alumni Association was that in the corridors of the school Friday evening. Four hundred members and guests were present. The guests of honor were Miss A. S. Vickers, Supt. and Mrs. John E. Miller.

Among the innovations were identification cards, the first issue of "The Alumni," a short business meeting and the hanging of class banners. Each identification card bore a stork carrying a diploma, indicative of the new class of 1906, which was born into the alumni Friday evening. The drawing was done by Charles Davis, 1905. The name of each member was written on his card.

The business meeting was held in the auditorium and was shortened by a new system of balloting and the signing of the constitution before the meeting.

Class banners decorated the walls of the lower hall. The decorations of the dining room were red and white, the colors of the graduating class.

Hamilton M. Forman, 1904, president of the association, was toastmaster. Thomas L. Fekete spoke on the "Alumni;" Walter Mann gave the welcome to the incoming class; Thos. Wier responded. Judge A. K. Vickers spoke on "Education and Citizenship" and Horace L. Adams advocated "Athletics in the Public Schools."

A feature was the receiving of wireless messages from Father Time and absent members of the alumni. The first were given by Charles P. Webb, who made use of wireless telegraphy receiver and other instruments. The others were reported by Miss Blanche Jenkins, 1904. The alumni octette sang several selections and the class of 1906 sang its class song.

The receiving line was made up of Hamilton M. Forman, Prof. Charles L. Manners, Miss Lulu Parker, Miss Blanche Collins, Judge Vickers, Mrs. R. J. Boylan, Horace J. Eggmann, Edgar Hissrich and Percy Knoebel.

ACQUIT CLUB STEWARD.

Jury Finds John Hagge Innocent of Violating Lid.

A jury in the Wyoming Street Police Court decided that the steward of the Iroquois Club, charged with selling liquor without a license, was not guilty. John Hagge, the steward, was arrested by Detective Meinz of the Central District June 19, when Judge Claiborne entered the club, treated the crowd and attached his signature to a "tab" as a members of the club.

Hagge testified that he has been in the employ of the club si months and that it is the custom for members to sign a "tab" for their refreshments, nothing being served to nonmembers.

P. J. O'Donnell, testified that he is secretary of the club, which was organized in 1901, and that it has nearly 300 members.

FOLK TO TAKE UP LEGAL FIGHT ON ICE TRUST

a study of conditions, declare that there is no ice sold in St. Louis this year save manufactured ice, and that the same condition obtained in 1905. They also maintain that ice can be manufactured cheaper than it can be harvested on the lakes and shipped, stored and rehandled.

Authorities on the cost of manufacturing ice fix the average cost per ton at $1. This is from a well-equipped plant, and in a wholesale way. The material in a ton of ice is 250 gallons of water, and the cost of this, whether drawn from the ground or from the city mains, is so small as to scarcely be worth computing. The other commodity used in converting this water into ice is ammonia, and the cost of this also is small. The ice manufacturers use the ammonia over and over again, and the industry has been reduced to such a science that a very small percentage of the liquid is lost by the process.

The chief cost in the production of ice is the cost of the fuel necessary to make the steam to operate the plant, and the labor to man it. Men actually engaged in this work told a Post-Dispatch reporter Saturday that it was figured that a ton of ice could be produced for $1, and when the cost was greater than that an investigation from the front office was always forthcoming.

While the greatest additional cost is imposed on the housekeepers and small consumers, who pay 40 cents for 100 pounds, and they are the largest losers in the aggregate, the most strenuous objections come from the business community. Business men who use large quantities of ice told a Post-Dispatch reporter that there was absolutely no competition in the ice business now. Last year the ice dealers were seeking business and would quote almost any low price to obtain business. Now no ice dealer will quote a price to a large consumer unless he is importuned, and then he will name such a price as will not get the business.

The proprietor of a large cafe and saloon said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was assured that the ice manufacturers were in a combination.

"Last year," he said, "I was buying my supply of ice, which amounted to more than a ton a day, from a certain concern. I always paid cash promptly, and my business was much desired by other ice manufacturers. I was approached frequently, and bids were offered at a much less figure than I was actually paying.

"This year the concern that I formerly did business with ignored me. I sent three or four times for them to come around and see me about this year's supply of ice. Another concern that I sometimes did business with came and quoted me the price that I have to pay at present. I was given to understand that I could buy ice only of this one concern. Others told me that there was no use of putting in a bid for the business, as the concern I was dealing with was entitled to the business."

Talks with dozens of large downtown consumers of ice reveal the fact that there is no uniform price charged by the ice dealers. Whenever a contract expires, it is renewed on a basis of an increase of about 25 per cent, and the consumers say they have to stand this raise or do without ice.

GUITAR EXPERT DIES.

David Booth Is Found Dead in His Room.

David Booth, a skillful player on the guitar, died in his room on the third floor of 516 South Third street, Friday night. His fellow lodgers, failing to hear Booth play Saturday, forced the door of his room and found him dead in bed. Booth had occupied the same room several years.

Booth's guitar lay on the table. It was recalled that he had complained of illness recently. The body was taken to the Morgue, where the inquest will be held. Booth was 38 years old and unmarried.

MASHERS INSULT HER, BRIDE SAYS

Mrs. Lulu Dill Claims Paul L. Hudson Is Latest Annoyer.

Mrs. Lulu Dill, the 19-year-old bride of E. R. Dill, a musician of 810 North Broadway, appeared Saturday in the City Hall Police Court against Paul L. Hudson, formerly of 4335 Greer avenue, who was arrested Friday night, after she had attacked a man who she said had spoken to her.

Mrs. Dill has been married just a year. She is a brunette, and dresses in good taste.

"If I dressed flashily or there was anything wonderful in my appearance I would not care if men looked at me on the street," said Mrs. Dill to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "But I dress in very plain garments and do not look about or give anybody an excuse to speak to me.

"It is not only the man at Broadway and St. Charles street Friday night. It is not only one night; it is every night. I cannot step away from my door without being spoken to by some stranger. The police always come too late. I am tired of it. I will see if I cannot be free to go about without being insulted.

"I know of other women who ignore masher's remarks, but I will not. I am never out after 9 in the evening, and I am sure I have a right to be out that late."

The scene of the trouble Friday evening was Broadway and St. Charles street. Mrs. Dill had left her home to meet her husband at the headquarters of the Musicians' Union, Twelfth and Chestnut streets. She was walking on Broadway and chanced to glance at an attractive window display, when she says a man spoke to her.

"I just turned on him and slapped him with my satchel," she says. "He ran until he fell into the arms of a detective. The officer said the man should be prosecuted and I told him I was willing.

"He took it as a joke. He just laughed and laughed—thought it was great fun. He wanted to know if there wasn't some way he could fix it by putting up a sum of money, for bail or something. The detective told him to put his purse in his pocket, that his money would not help him."

E. R. Dill, son of Dr. E. A. Dill, a dentist at the Broadway address, is Mrs. Dill's husband. "I wish I had been around," said he. "The police would not have been needed.

"Why, it's only Thursday night my wife came in and said a man had followed her. I just wanted to get a crack at somebody like that and I sent her out and followed on the other side of the street. The fellow came up and made a remark. I chased him for five blocks, but he was one of those long-legged chaps and I couldn't get him. It is a good thing I didn't, I guess."

Dill exhibited a "billy" made of heavy carriage tire rubber—the kind that dazed but does not kill the victim. He waved the weapon menacingly, showing what he would do to anyone he caught bothering his wife.

Hudson's case was laid over until next Thursday.

OLD LADIES' AUTO RIDE.

Mayor Wells' Machine Carries Inmates of Home.

Thirty-five aged women, inmates of the Home for the Friendless, 4431 South Broadway, have had their first automobile ride. Accompanied by Mayor Wells, Mrs. George M. Wright, Mrs. John T. Davis and Mrs. H. C. Elliot, they spent Friday afternoon in a spin through Forest Park and the South Side.

The society women visited Mayor Wells at the City Hall and invited him to accompany them in his auto. Each of the women had her own machine. They told the Mayor that they only wanted him to inspect the home. When the four machines arrived at the home they found the 35 aged women waiting eagerly for the ride. The Mayor had to leave his auto with the party in Forest Park and returned to the City Hall by a street car.

ROLLS OUT HIGH WINDOW.

Lodger Falls From Bed Twenty Foot to Ground.

John Meriwether, 48 years old, of Troy, Mo., rolled out of bed at Clark's rooming house, 1520 Locust street, and then out a window at 3:40 a. m. Saturday. He is at the City Hospital.

Meriwether came to St. Louis Friday and procured a room at the Locust street house on the second floor. He dragged the bed to the window. The bed was on a level with the sill.

When he rolled through the window he dropped 20 feet to the court. He has a compound fracture of the left arm and elbow.

HIGHWAYMEN PUT TO FLIGHT BY MAN OF 70

Elsah, Ill., Butcher Makes Two Armed Prowlers Beg for Mercy.

KNOCKS REVOLVER AWAY

One Who Reaches for $130 in Pocket Is Knocked Down and Beaten.

BOTH FLEE IN DARKNESS

Would-Be Robbers Saw Michael Barnell Counting Roll in His Shop.

Michael Barnell, 70 years old, whipped and put to flight two highwaymen who attacked him in Elsah, Ill., early Saturday. Although one of the robbers had a loaded revolver drawn, and the other stood ready to aid him, Barnell gave the Osler theory the most severe jolt it has yet received.

Despite the fact that he has lived the allotted three score and ten, Michael Barnell is yet hale and hearty. He keeps a butcher shop in Elsah, a village of 400 souls, 15 miles northwest of Alton. He employs no clerks and does all his own work. Friday night his books needed overhauling, and it was after midnight when he completed his work and started for his home.

While Barnell was going through his books and counting the $130 that he placed in his trousers pocket, two men, who had been put off a Bluff Line freight train at Elsah, were attracted by the light in the old man's butcher shop.

Never Thought of Resistance

They observed the roll of money, and took note of the long, gray beard of its owner. The idea of failure to obtain the money and of resistance on the part of the aged man never bothered them.

After extinguishing the light in his shop, Barnell started rapidly for home. He had not proceeded far when the two highwaymen stepped in his path. One thrust a revolver in his face and gave command for him to throw up his hands. The other highwayman stepped forward and thrust his hand in the pocket that contained the money.

Before he could grasp it, the strong right arm of the aged Barnell shot out and the revolver was knocked from the hand of the robber. Deprived of his weapon and surprised by the strength of the old man's blow, the would-be thief ran.

Knocked Other Man Down.

Barnell then attacked the man whose hand was at his pocket. He struck him a powerful blow and knocked him down. He sprang on the prostrate form and pummeled him until he begged for mercy.

Barnell arose, and the whipped highwayman scrambled to his feet and stole away, joining his companion. The Elsah Marshal was not notified of the attack until Saturday morning, and by that time the would-be robbers were not to be found.

FAIR GROUNDS BILL UP.

Provides Lease at $100,000 Yearly for 13 Years.

The plan for the purchase by the city of the old Fair grounds for a public park is now up for consideration by the Municipal Assembly. Mr. Linde introduced the bill at Friday's session of the Council.

Mr. Linde offered a similar bill several months ago, but later withdrew it when he was informed that it should have been introduced by the Board of Public Improvements. The Board of Public Improvements then held several hearings on the plan, but since then nothing had been done.

Meantime Mr. Linde had consulted Counselor Bates, who informed him that he could introduce the bill in the Council and not violate any of the provisions of the city charter. The second bill was the result.

This measure is practically the same as the first one. It provides for the lease of the tract for a period of 13 years at an annual rental of $100,000, with the privilege reserved by the city of buying the tract, at the expiration of the lease, for $1,767,000. This would bring the cost of the old Fair grounds up to $1,767,000.

WANTS NAME CHANGED.

Woman Doesn't Want to Wed as Olive Roberts.

Mrs. Olive Roberts of 4862 Maffitt avenue asks the courts to change her name because of its similarity to that of Ollie Roberts, the famous police witness. She expects soon to take the name of Dr. Harry H. Meyers of 1923 North Taylor avenue, but neither of them likes the idea of her going to the altar with a name so closely resembling that of the woman who has had so much publicity of late.

Mrs. Roberts' application to have her name changed to Olive Hill, her maiden name, was taken up by Judge Ryan Friday afternoon. Mrs. Roberts Told him she was 23 years old and that she had been married when she was 15 years old to a man named Roberts. They had lived together four years, when she sued him for divorce. She later withdrew the suit and the husband then sued her, alleging desertion, and he obtained a decree.

Dr. Meyers took the stand and gave the same reasons for the desire of his fiancee to have her name changed. Judge Ryan took the application under advisement in order to look at the petitions in the two divorce suits.

RIGHTS VOTED BUSCH RAILROAD ARE PERPETUAL

Council Votes Franchise With $5000 a Year as City's Share.

CARLOAD LIMIT REMOVED

Clause Restricting Charge to $7.50 Stricken Out by Majority.

LOOPHOLE FOR CROSSINGS

Depression From Grade Provided for at Discretion of Officials.

August A. Busch, chief promoter of the Manufacturers' Railway bill, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Saturday that he believed the House of Delegates would pass the bill in the form in which it was passed by the Council at Friday's session. He declared that the methods used by him and others in persuading legislators to support the bill had been honorable, and said he would demand that President Forman of the Council bring proof of his charge of a "combine" of councilmen supporting the bill or retract the charge. The bill, passed with three opposing votes in the Council, will be referred to a House committee at next Tuesday's meeting.

The bill, as it now stands, grants a perpetual franchise, places the annual compensation to the city at $5000, and places no maximum charge on carloads switched across the river.

The clause requiring the depression of the tracks west of Grand avenue, which some members strove to attach in unequivocal form, is so amended that it leaves this matter to the discretion of the city.

There is a clause in the bill which says that the Manufacturers' Railway cannot sell or transfer its franchise. The last section of the bill gives the city the power to repeal or amend the ordinance at any time.

The route of the proposed railroad begins at Second and Dorcas streets. It runs through South Side streets and alleys, turns west just south of Sacred Heart Convent on Meramec street and runs thence to the county line. The backers of the railroad intend to connect this line with a belt line around the city. They also have announced that they will build a belt line around East St. Louis.

Only Three Opposed Bill.

There was a big crowd in the balcony of the Council chamber when the bill came up for final discussion. A dozen or more members of the House were present.

Most of the fight had been fought out before. Cramer and his followers were plainly in the majority. President Forman and Councilmen Ewing and Lesser, the three who voted against the bill, constituted the last of those who had striven repeatedly to attach numerous amendments to the bill.

Lesser and Cramer, who discussed a veracity issue at last Tuesday's meeting, furnished the only excitement. They managed to become embroiled again in the discussion over the life of the franchise.

The bill, as first taken up at Friday's meeting, contained the perpetual franchise clause and the $5000 compensation clause. It also limited the maximum charge for switching cars across the river to $7.50.

Cramer started the debate by introducing an amendment cutting out the $7.50 charge. Owing to a technical error in the method of introduction, the amendment was not put to vote, Mr. Cramer not understanding at at first the nature of President Forman's ruling, made a speech about 'appealing from the chair,' which made spectators smile as if they expected the fireworks were about to begin.

Cite Terminal's Power.

Cramer finally got his amendment before the Council in parliamentary manner. This gave Lesser his chance. He said he would like to hear Mr. Cramer's reason for introducing the amendment.

"Simply because," Cramer made answer, "I consider it unfair to the Manufacturers' Railway to place a maximum charge on a carload when the Terminal can charge anything it wants."

"So that is your reason," said Lesser. "Well, I thought every citizen with the interests of the city at heart was making every effort to force the Terminal to bring down their charge. That is why the maximum charge of $7.50 was put in this bill. We don't want another railroad with the same power as the Terminal. We want a railroad which will be forced to keep within a reasonable charge, and in this way force the Terminal to bring down its charge."

Mr. Cramer explained that he had discovered that carloads were heavier than he at first supposed. He said some carloads went even as high as 40 and 50 tons.

All Limit Removed.

He said that as the bill allows a charge of 1½ cents a hundred pounds, it would be unreasonable to place a maximum of $7.50 on a carload.

Here Hitchcock introduced an amendment to Cramer's amendment, placing the maximum at $9. This was lost, and a few minutes later Cramer's motion was carried, striking out the maximum charge clause.

Hitchcock introduced an amendment, providing for the depression of the tracks at King's highway, which was carried.

Owing to the short period before adjournment for the summer, it was suggested that the bill be engrossed immediately and put on its passage and sent to the House. President Forman declared a recess of 30 minutes while the secretaries engrossed the bill.

It was then brought back to the Council Chamber and put on its passage. When the vote, 10 to 3, was announced, there were cheers.

Busch Answers Forman.

When asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter about the remarks of President Forman concerning the "combine" which has succeeded in killing most of the amendments to the bill, August A. Busch said:

"If Mr. Forman knows of any 'combine' in the Council, I consider it his duty as a citizen, and particularly as a city official, to take the public into his confidence and to state what he knows. If I were in his place and knew what he intimates he knows, I would not feel I had done my duty unless I laid all the facts before the Circuit Attorney or grand jury."

When asked whether he knew of any foundation for Mr. Forman's remarks, Mr. Busch stated:

"Not only do I know of none, but I do not believe there is any. I know that the Manufacturers' Railway Co. has only sought to obtain the passage of its measure by legitimate arguments and an effort to prove the advantage of what it asks to the city itself. Of course, we are interested in the success of our road, but its success will most certainly be to the interest of all of St. Louis in relieving a condition that is well-nigh intolerable. Not only that, but anything in reason the city wants we will readily accede to. The interests of the city and ours are identical."

Mr. Busch added:

"If Mr. Forman's remarks were intended to imply that the Manufacturers' Railway Co. or any of its officials or employes, or anyone in the remotest degree connected with it, is in any way interested in the supposed combine, then I not only think it is his duty to speak out, but I demand it, as I believe is my privilege.

"If we are parties to any effort to secure improper legislation, we deserve not only exposure, but punishment, and Mr. Forman, as President of the Council and the second highest officer of the city, should see that we get it."

"Sin Killer" Griffin, a negro evangelist who has conducted services in all parts of the country, has announced his intention of "taking a fall out of the devil" in St. Louis, and has determined to open the engagement Sunday evening at Tenth and Market streets. His subject on that occasion will be "Six Million Dry Bones Coming Together."

Griffin arrived in St. Louis Friday from Cairo, where he has just finished a series of meetings. He says that from reports he has received he thinks it will require 10 days or longer for him to complete his work of exterminating evil in St. Louis. He will preach a special sermon Monday evening on "The Child Sneezed Seven Times After It Was Dead." Griffin will be assisted by 50 jubilee singers.

Drowned While Bathing Alone.

After several hours spent in dragging, the body of Louis Donovan, 14 years old, of 8125 Pennsylvania avenue, was recovered from River Des Peres Friday. The boy had placed his clothes on the bank and had gone swimming east of the Broadway bridge. Mike Tracy of 3008 North Market street and Thomas Robinson of 1425 Webster avenue found the clothing and started the search for the body.

THEY GOT MARRIED AND THEN SENT NEWS TO THEIR FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Wilson have just sent out an announcement of the fact that they were married without the knowledge of their many friends last Thursday.

Mr. Wilson is bookkeeper for an Illinois company and his bride, who was Miss Rose Steffen of 2548 Caroline street, was a telephone girl.

Both worked as usual Wednesday and until 3 p. m. Thursday, when they met by appointment and went to St. Kevin's Church, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Father William Shea. They were readily forgiven by their parents.

GIVES LIFE FOR NEIGHBOR'S BABY

Mrs. Custer, Who Shielded Little One in Accident, Dies.

Mrs. Amelia Custer, whose love for the 4-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor caused her to be injured by a Suburban car, died Saturday at the City Hospital.

She was fond of the baby and often took it with her when she went for walks. As she was crossing Wash street, near Twenty-third, she did not notice the advancing street car until too late to get out of its way and keep hold of the baby.

She did not release the child, but held it so that she only was struck by the car. She was thrown so that her head hit the pavement. The baby fell to the street. It rolled about, but was not injured.

At the City Hospital she did not recover consciousness. The child was taken to its parents, whose home is in the building where she lived, at 814 North Twentieth street.

GIRL BITTEN 8 TIMES BY DOGS

Mabel Sweetin Severely Hurt—Police Sergeant Attacked—Cat Bites Woman.

Mabel Sweetin, the 9-year-old daughter of William D. Sweetin of 1308 Old Manchester road, a Frisco railroad conductor, was bitten eight times by two dogs which attacked her while she was in the rear of her aunt's home at 1120 Kentucky avenue.

The child was playing Friday in the back yard of Mrs. J. B. Longe's home. She began petting a dog belonging to Mrs. Charles Hagemeyer, who lives at the Kentucky avenue address. Suddenly a stray dog came out of the Hagemeyer stable and sprang at the child.

The little girl was knocked down and her head bruised on the brick pavement. The dog she had been petting joined in the attack and the little girl was bitten five times on the left leg, once on the right leg, once on the face near the right eye and once on the left shoulder before Mrs. Long and Mrs. Hagemeyer could drive the brutes away.

After her wounds had been cauterized by a physician the little girl was taken home. Her condition is not considered dangerous. Her parents say this is the second time she has been attacked by dogs.

Sergt. Flannigan of the Central District killed a dog which bit him on the thigh early Saturday in the alley between Pine and Chestnut streets in the 1000 block.

Mrs. Bertha Piesing of 3503 Wisconsin avenue was bitten on the wrist by a stray cat which she picked up in the yard at her home Friday.

TOO MANY WOMEN.

Civil Service Commission Will Examine No More.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 23.—United States Civil Service Commissioner Newton received instructions from Washington today to allow no more women to take civil service examinations for postoffice positions, as Uncle Sam now has more women in the department than he desires.

This order is liable to call down on the Postoffice Department the wrath of the club women and business women the country over. Postmaster Busse already has discriminated against women, and he has been grilled and clouted for it. Now it appears that he was only carrying out orders from Washington.

Blake says he met Mrs. Pazen in New York in 1905. They talked about Pazen and Blake remarked that "Joe was unlucky." Mrs. Pazen said he was a "dub." She told him she was living at 360 Central Park and invited him to call, he says.

LEFT HOMELESS BY FIRE, THEY LIVE IN TENTS

Golconda (Ill.) Appeals to Secretary of State After Big Fire.

TWO BLOCKS WIPED OUT

Twenty-Five Families Homeless, City Without Water and Lights.

GOLCONDA, Ill., June 23.—Following the destruction of 24 business houses and residences by fire here yesterday, Mayor J. O. Williamson telegraphed Secretary of State Rose at Springfield, requesting him to send 25 tents to Golconda at once, as a number of families were rendered homeless by the fire.

Two blocks of the town's best structures were wiped out, entailing a loss of approximately $60,000. An explosion in a laundry on the second floor of the city water and light plant started the fire, which destroyed that building and left the town without water and lights.

The heaviest losers are: Golconda Electric Light Co., W. S. Watson Jr., A. D. Pierce's Sons, M. Vogt, G. G. Heertter, Charles W. Cook, Mrs. M. Bridges, John Field, Mrs. Bertie Kidd, Golconda Steam Laundry, G. Well, L. T. Wallace and Mrs. C. Ramthor.

Insurance to the amount of $18,000 was carried by the following companies: Home of New York, North America of Philadelphia, Citizens' of St. Louis, Springfield Fire and Marine of Massachusetts, Niagara, American Central, Hartford, Hanover and Aetna. The American had $4300 and the others from $1500 to $3000 each.

STATE SENDS TENTS TO HOMELESS FAMILIES.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 23.—On receipt of a telegram from Mayor J. O. Williamson of Golconda, stating that fire had wiped out two blocks of buildings and had made 25 families homeless, Secretary of State Rose directed Adjutant-General Scott to send tents to the stricken families. The tents were dispatched on the first train leaving Springfield after the telegram was received.

MAILS LETTER IN FIREBOX

Woman Makes Mistake and Summons Fire Department.

The attempt made by an elderly, well-dressed woman to mail a letter in the fire-alarm box at Spring and Cote Brilliante avenue was futile, so far as getting the letter started on its way was concerned, but it brought out all the Fire Department apparatus in that part of the city Friday evening.

Persons living at the corner saw the woman go to the fire alarm box and look for the slot. Not finding it on the outside, she opened the door. Still no slot, but the hook looked inviting and she seized it and pulled it down. Still no slot appeared and the woman walked away to look for a letter box of more simple construction.

She was out of sight when the firemen arrived and their search for a blaze was as futile as her search for the slot.

JEALOUSY COSTS STAR.

Ferrick Dismissed in Spite of Fiancee's Plea.

Despite the efforts of his fiancee to save him, Policeman John H. Ferrick of the Carr Street Station was dismissed from the force after being found guilty by the Police Board of absenting himself from his beat and making a false report. Ferrick was also charged with assaulting Thomas Durkin, but he was not positively identified as the man who committed the assault.

It was charged that Ferrick left his beat last Saturday night and went to the home of Miss Emma Hutchinson, 1621 Morgan street, where he found Durkin in conversation with Miss Hutchinson. On finding Durkin, it was charged, Ferrick beat him with his night stick.

Timothy Flynn, who has been under suspension for two years, was to have been tried on a charge of neglect of duty in not suppressing outrages at the Folk-Hawes primaries, March 12, 1904, but his attorney objected to Flynn being tried, saying his commission expired May 9 last. The board ordered Flynn's name stricken from the rolls.

PORCH CLIMBER WINS.

Girls, Baby and Servant Sleep Through Burglary.

The slumbers of three young women, a baby and a servant were not disturbed when a porch-climber entered the front window of Charles T. Ledden's home at 5636 Vernon avenue and roamed over the house at will. He stole $100 worth of silverware.

The burglar is supposed to have climbed up the front porch and crawled through a hall window which had been left open.

Misses Marion, Virginia and Helen Ledden and the baby occupied three rooms to the side of this hall, but they had fallen asleep about 10:30 o'clock Thursday night and did not hear a sound.

Mr. Ledden and his wife are in Chicago.

MRS. MIZNER VERY ILL; HE DOESN'T KNOW

Former St. Louisan, in Frisco, Not Notified of Wife's Serious Condition.

EMERGENCY OPERATION

Doctor Says Danger Is Not Immediate and She May Recover.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Mrs. Wilson Mizner, or Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes, as she prefers to be called, is ill of appendicitis at her residence, 3200 Michigan avenue. The first report was that her condition was exceedingly grave and that it was doubtful if she would recover.

Dr. William E. Quine said last night, however, that Mrs. Mizner was in no immediate danger. He said that if she should not survive it would not be due to appendicitis or the operation, but in consequence of complications. He thought she might get well.

An emergency operation was performed Thursday and yesterday the case appeared to be somewhat more hopeful. Dr. John B. Murphy performed the operation at the residence.

Following a night of considerable pain Mrs. Mizner said that she felt much easier and was sure she would be restored to health.

Mr. Mizner has not been notified of his wife's illness. He is in San Francisco.

Mrs. Mizner, under the Yerkes will, received absolutely only $200,000. She has during her life, however, a half interest in the estate, estimated to be worth $15,000,000.

Several months ago, before she came to Chicago, Mrs. Mizner announced her intention of giving $1,000,000 to found a hospital in Chicago to the memory of Mr. Yerkes and it was said that her will provides for a legacy of that amount.

LONGWORTHS AT KIEL.

Germans Give Them a Boisterous Welcome a la America.

KIEL, Germany, June 23.—Several hundred people assembled at the railroad station to cheer Congressman Longworth and Mrs. Longworth on their arrival from London. Lieutenant-Commander William L. Howard, the American naval attache, representing the Embassy at Berlin, and Frederick W. Whiteridge, who was the special Ambassador of the United States at the wedding of King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain, and is an old acquaintance, met them at the station. Mr. and Mrs. Longworth were escorted to the imperial waiting room, so as to escape the attentions of the crowds.

Later they entered a carriage stationed at the private entrance, but the spectators soon perceived this, streamed around the building and cheered the Americans. As they drove off a loud voice called out in English, "Welcome to Kiel," and a woman threw a bouquet, which Mrs. Longworth smilingly caught, while Mr. Longworth lifted his hat in acknowledgment of the gift.

The travelers were driven to a small hotel, standing in the yacht club grounds and overlooking the bay. The Stars and Stripes flew from a mast in front of the hotel and the manager tried to get a band to play "The Star Spangled Banner," but no musicians were available. Some of the guests of the hotel assembled on the veranda and a number of photographers were busy from the moment Mr. and Mrs. Longworth came in sight until they vanished within the hotel, where they have the best rooms in the house and a private veranda and a sea view.

ICEBOX MAN SENTENCED.

Former Deputy Sheriff Convicted of Saloon Robbery.

Unless his attorneys succeed in gaining a new hearing, Francis Blake, former Deputy Sheriff, will serve five years in the Penitentiary for the robbery of Albert Schaeffer's saloon at Thirteenth and Warren streets, Jan. 16. He was found guilty in Judge Kinsey's court Friday and sentenced.

Witnesses said that Blake entered Schaeffer's saloon and grocery with two other men. While he held Schaeffer and John and William Bingham in one corner of the room with a revolver, his companions took the contents of the cash drawer. Schaeffer and the Bingham's were then locked in the icebox, where they were found a half hour later by a customer.

TWO OF THE NURSES WHO WENT ON STRIKE AT COUNTY FARM

NURSES SAY THEY COULDN'T SING

Belleville Superintendent Declares, However, Strikers Disobeyed Him.

The three nurses and young woman cook, who were discharged from the St. Clair County Farm at Belleville because of their "sympathy" strike, have gone to their homes, where they may receive callers of any description. It was because, as the young women say, they could not receive young men callers at the farm that the trouble with the superintendent and matron arose.

Miss Hendricks, one of the nurses, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"We couldn't have callers, either male or female, without being made to feel that we were presuming. We couldn't eat a lunch during the day without being told that we shouldn't, and we couldn't sing while at our work without being told that it made some one nervous, so we quit."

Miss Hendricks, whose home is in New Athens, together with Misses Emily Miller of Hecker and Louisa Sauer and Emilia Lempkemeyer of Belleville, quit work.

Supt. Hill says the trouble lay entirely with the nurses, who refused to do what they were told.

"The straw that broke the camel's back," said Miss Hendricks, "was when the matron, Mrs. Hill, ordered me to do some sewing in the hallway of the main building. There is a sewing room, and I told her I would sew there, but that it was too dark in the hall. She said I should sew in the hall, and I refused. Supt. Hill told me I could leave then."

"And the rest of us went with her," finished one of the other nurses.

"It was simply a case of insubordination," said Supt. Hill. "I have a large institution on my hands here, and I have to have obedience. The nurses would not do as they were told, and I discharged one of them. The others quit with her. As for not allowing them to have callers, I never objected, and do not see why they say I did. Their places have been filled, and I see no reason why any more need be said."

Miss Hendricks is a distant relative of Supt. and Matron Hill. Miss Miller is a daughter of Supervisor L. G. Miller of Hecker, who is a member of the Pauper Committee of the Board of Supervisors. The Pauper Committee has jurisdiction over the County Farm.

CAR BURNS AT NIGHT.

Vehicle Strikes Broken Trolley Wire on De Hodiamont.

Olive street Wellston car No. 387 was destroyed by fire caused by a current from a broken trolley wire early Saturday at Page boulevard and De Hodiamont avenue. The floors, seats and nearly all the woodwork of the car were consumed.

The car was turning in soon after midnight. J. H. Eichors of 6204 Ella avenue was the motorman and William Frank was conductor. There were no passengers.

The motorman was hurrying south from Wellston on De Hodiamont avenue. The street was deserted. Suddenly, at Page boulevard, there was a rattle of the trolley rope over the edge of the roof as the trolley pole sprang into the air. The motors hummed more softly.

"Trolley's off again," muttered the motorman as he put on the air brakes. The car slowed down and ran easily toward a wire banging in the middle of the track. The wire struck the car above the motorman's head. There was a blinding flash.

Then a series of forked blue flames sprang across the front of the vestibule.

Conductor Frank turned in an alarm, but the fire burned itself out before the firemen arrived.

The damage is estimated at $2500. The car was pulled to the car sheds when the flames died out.

Two Lose Licenses.

The saloon licenses of William White of 622 Holly avenue and Edward Berger of 1501 Chestnut street have been revoked by Excise Commissioner Mulvihill, and citations have been ordered against Nicholas Mararich of 2201 South Third street and Nicholas Fortini of 400 South Third street. The citations are for alleged violations of the Sunday law. The case of Albert Leopold of 4001 South Broadway was dismissed without prejudice.

Eight houses in Lawton were practically wrecked. Two small buildings were rolled from their foundations, set afire and partially destroyed.

A Rock Island passenger train was nearly blown from the track between here and Fort Sill. Lights were blown out. Several women fainted.

"If there is anyone in the whole world who wants to know about Warner's Safe Cure, just tell them that I owe my life to that medicine. It cured me when three doctors utterly failed even to give me relief.

"Eighteen years ago I was taken down with meningitis. I was very badly off and my 3 doctors seemed unable to do much for me. After leaving my bed it was three months before I could walk. I had no use of myself at all. All I could do was to sit and read.

"Recently a neighbor handed me Warner's Safe Cure book. At that time I had little faith in medicine of any kind, for I had taken most everything without relief, and I had just about given up hope of ever getting well. But after reading your book I decided to try Warner's Safe Cure.

"It was astonished at its results, for after taking it 3 days I began to pick up. At the end of the first bottle I was able to come out my room.

"I am now entirely cured and can say without hesitation that my recovery is due to Warner's Safe Cure and nothing else.

"I have since recommended your medicine to many others and shall always continue to do so, as I feel that my life was saved by it. Very gratefully yours.—Mrs. E. L. SHIELDS, 222 Courtland st., Atlanta, Ga., April 28, '06.

THE ANTI-REBATE VICTORY.

The conclusion of the Kansas City railroad rebate cases is a smashing victory for law against unfair discriminations. Judge McPherson assessed fines of $15,000 against the defendant packing companies and the Burlington & Quincy Railroad. He fined George Q. Thomas, the rebate agent of several mercantile firms in St. Louis and Kansas City, $6000 and sentenced him to the Penitentiary for four months. He inflicted a fine of $4000 and imprisonment for three months upon Thomas' assistant, L. B. Taggart.

The protest of Judge O. M. Spencer against the apparent discriminations in the punishment of the defendants seemed well taken. He called attention to the fact that the wealthy packers and officials of the railroads were fined and the rich merchant principals were not prosecuted, whereas the go-betweens of the railroad and the merchants were punished with both fine and imprisonment. That one of these injustices will be rectified was indicated by the following significant utterance of Judge McPherson:

> "I assume all these concerns (mercantile firms which received rebates) will be proceeded against for receiving these unlawful rebates, which can be done either by indictment or information as the last vestige of the plea of immunity for corporations has been wiped out by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States of March 12, 1906, in the case of Hale vs. Henkle."

When the merchants who receive rebates, the railroads which give them and the agents who pass the rebate money in mysterious packages from the one to the other are punished equally, we shall be on the high road to a restoration of fairness in transportation rates.

In view of the utterance of Judge McPherson concerning the prosecution of the mercantile firms, perhaps a glimmering of the impropriety of retaining upon the Municipal Terminal Commission, Mr. Hugh McKittrick, whose firm was one of those which received rebates through Broker Thomas and was referred to by Judge McPherson as liable to prosecution, may enter Mayor Wells' mind.

The fine grade of olive oil used by the Union League Club of Philadelphia turns out to be machine oil with an adulterant. Isn't that enough to drive a club to drink?

ST. LOUIS' TRADE ADVANTAGES.

Manufacturers, tradesmen, professional men, working men and women, and all who are looking about for a promising location to make money, earn a living, or make a home, are invited to St. Louis for the following good reasons:

Its enormous trade territory—30,000,000 people within a radius of 500 miles. No other city has this advantage.

Its railroad and river facilities. Twenty-six great railroads enter the city. Nineteen miles of river frontage, on the Mississippi, give St. Louis access for its trade to 5815 miles of waterways and hundreds of cities and towns in the vast Mississippi Valley.

Its practically inexhaustible supply of sites for factories, stores and homes. St. Louis is not cramped in its growth by any peculiarities of nature.

Its cheap building material and fuel. Fuel for manufacturing costs less in St. Louis than in any other large city.

Its unparalleled growth and prosperity since the World's Fair. During 1903, 1904 and 1905, St. Louis gained 259 factories, with a capital of $36,196,900. During 1905, 51 new mercantile establishments, with a capital of $11,083,000, began business here.

During the past five years St. Louis has gained in the value of manufacturing output, $73,337,719, or 37.8 per cent. This was more than 18 times as much as its gain during the previous 10 years.

Instead of suffering a decline after the World's Fair, St. Louis showed, in 1905, an increase of 65 per cent in building operations. This increased activity is still evident.

This city has the best and most extensive electric railway system in the United States.

In its bank and financial solidity St. Louis is in the front rank. Its bank clearings during 1905 aggregated $2,899,798,979, an increase of 3.8 per cent over the preceding year.

These figures are vouched for by the St. Louis Business Men's League. The further fact that St. Louis has just voted to expend more than $11,000,000 for a free bridge, for new city institutions, for the extension of its fire department, for bridges and viaducts over its railways, for a new and handsome boulevard and park system, and for the reconstructions and extension of its sewers, proves that this great metropolis is thoroughly alive to its advantages and determined to lay a firm foundation for its future on the broadest lines.

The New St. Louis is here. Her million of population is almost in sight.

With no limitation on the life of the charter, and no limitation on charges, the Manufacturers' Railway bill as it passed the Council is as fine an example of folly and wrong in franchise legislation as St. Louis has seen since the old days of franchise grabbing. The 10 Councilmen who voted for it had little regard for public interests, but sacrificed them to private interests. The policy of granting perpetual charters is condemned everywhere in enlightened communities as the height of folly. St. Louis has suffered enough from one case of that kind—the gas franchise. And while in the thick of a fight with a terminal monopoly to grant a terminal franchise without placing any limit upon charges is idiocy. The clause forbidding the sale to or consolidation with another terminal company has no value with no check upon charges. If the House fails of its duty in dealing with this bill the only hope of the city lies in the Mayor, and in view of the Council vote that is not of the best. Citizens should vigorously protest against the further progress of the bill in its present form.

THE THINGS WE EAT.

Congressman Mann's exposure of food adulterations was a much-needed bit of muck raking.

Adulterants are regularly advertised, listed and sold. Mr. Mann showed the House a "pepper deteriorator," price $20 a ton. It is composed of cornmeal and a dye. The mixtures goes on the market as black pepper. This is ground pepper. People who wish to assure themselves of the pure article buy the pepper berries and grind them in their home mills. But these berries are themselves nothing but tapioca, colored with lampblack. Most of the coffee sold as Mocha and Java is Brazilian coffee. The rest of it is made of chicory, bread and sawdust. Cotton seed oil is sold as olive oil and put up in cans the exact facsimile of those containing the pure olive oil. Mr. Mann showed a sample of machine oil which had been used by the Philadelphia Union League Club as a salad dressing. Honey made of glucose is sold as the real article. And last, but not least, preservatives which are composed o. poisonous stuffs are regularly sold to manufacturers.

It is a fitting pendant to the beef scandal. The web of fraud stretches over so many industries that it is difficult for even experts to distinguish the pure food from the adulterated stuff.

The publicity bath which has been given the concerns which thus fatten on the health and vigor of the people will suffice. The law cannot lag far behind revelations like that made by Mr. Mann on the floor of the House of Representatives. Of course, interested persons fight the pure food bill, but it can hardly be defeated now. The case has been proved against the malefactors and they cannot stand out against the public indignation.

British cruelty is "something awful." Neither female nor male convicts in English prisons are permitted to see a mirror during the period of their incarceration.

MAKING A HERO OF HIM.

What is the sentiment behind the applause following on the acquittal of a man prosecuted for perjury in boodle investigations?

The verdict of not guilty puts an end to all discussion so far as the particular defendant is concerned. He is not guilty and there is nothing more to be said on that side of the matter.

But when the whole community makes a hero of a man known to the people dwelling therein only as a defendant in such case, the fact is assuredly of some importance.

Not long ago the city and State were so "worked up" over corruption in public office that the danger was that every man pointed at by the finger of suspicion would be summarily convicted, even against the evidence. The enthusiasm over Albright's acquittal, whatever else it may mean, certainly indicates a radical change in the public attitude.

A man's friends may be expected to rejoice and make merry when he vindicates his character to the satisfaction of a jury. But curiosity and wonder are excited when strangers manifest more than a polite and humane pleasure over his escape. Mr. Albright may be a hero to his friends. Why was he made a hero by the Maconites? Was it because he has a pleasing personality and captivated the community by his graces and good fellowship, or because prosecutions of this kind are looked upon as persecution and the people are really tired of them, as some politicians assert?

It is charged in a divorce case that the husband thought more of his chickens than of his wife. It does not appear, either, that he was henpecked.

The stupid Chicago Judge who will not allow a woman to paint a sign because a bunch of yaps stop to look at her ought to be locked up himself.

With the lid on Ireland, what may not yet happen in Germany?

MILLIONAIRE HANDICAPS.

From the New York World.

Mr. Belmont's activities in connection with Judge Parker's nomination in 1904 cost the candidate thousands upon thousads of votes. Similar activities on Mr. Hearst's part in connection with anybody's nomination in 1908 would be equally disastrous. Before doing anything else the Democratic organization must free itself from its millionaire handicaps, whether they call themselves conservatives or socialists. Mr. Belmont using his corporation influence to control the Democratic organization for his own advantage or Mr. Hearst using his millions to gain possession of the party machinery for his own advantage—both are equally objectionable.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S OPPORTUNITY.

From the New York World.

Since his annual message to Congress Mr. Roosevelt has not had a word to say about prohibiting corporation contributions to campaign funds, but the issue is now presented before him in concrete form, and he can back up his words with deeds. Four words from him will be sufficient. He has only to say to Speaker Cannon and the House of Representatives, "Pass the Tillman bill," and it will be passed.

With Post-Dispatch Poets and Humorists

GOOD TIMES AHEAD.

(Rev. H. S. Bradley, addressing the graduates of Washington University, predicted that the philosopher of the future will hold it a disgrace to grow rich off of other people's wants.—News.)

In the better day that's coming
By and by,
There won't a rich man look us
In the eye.
The millionaire will hide his face
And languish in his deep disgrace,
And earth will be a bully place
For members of the human race.

In the perfect day that's dawning
Through the fog,
The people shall cease fawning
On the hog.
The altruist will come to bat
And show us clearly where we're at,
And this shall be his firm flat:
"A hog's a hog for all of that."

In the blessed day that's promised
After while,
We'll look with grave suspicion
On a pile,
We'll call the man whose god is dough
A pariah, and treat him so,
And this old earth of ours will grow
As good as any place we know.

In the heaven here the preacher
Can behold,
We'll count a few things greater
E'en than gold.
We'll have a new life motive birth,
Of greedy folk a happy dearth,
And humble folk of moral worth
May deign to dwell upon the earth.

Twelve thousand persons crossed to the East Side on a Carondelet ferry last Sunday. What with the lid, the need of the free bridge grows daily more acute.

THE QUESTION.

Whether to let it rain
And water the dry earth,
That the new corn may grow
And the clover put forth
Its fragrance in the Summer air;
Whether to let it rain
And moisten the parched roots
Of the fat tomato,
And nourish the flowers,
The sweet flowers,
Whose perfume doth
The poet's lark inhale
And therefore sing:
Or whether to bid it cease,
And no more rain
And the warm sun
Summon forth from sundry clouds
And bid it shine,
And doubly shine,
That we may have a ball game
This afternoon—
That is the question.

"This," said the parrot as he grasped the cracker, "will just fill the bill."—Cornell Widow.

STORIES TOLD IN WASHINGTON

To the Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The House of Representatives has been intensely interested in an extract from Macauley's essay on Frederick the Great, which somebody dug up a few days ago and circulated in typewritten form. The heading on the extract is: "Who is the American prototype?" And nobody has to take more than one guess to fix it on President Roosevelt. This is the extract:

"Most of the vices of Frederick's administration resolved themselves into one vice, the spirit of meddling. The indefatigable activity of his intellect, his dictatorial temper, his military habits, all incline him to this great fault. He interfered with the course of justice, as well as with the course of trade, and set up his crude notions of equity against the law as expounded by the unanimous voice of the gravest magistrates.

"It never occurred to him that men whose lives were passed in adjudicating on questions of civil right were more likely to form correct opinions on such questions than a Prince whose attention was divided among a thousand objects and who had never read a law book through. The resistance opposed to him by the tribunal inflamed him to fury; he reviled his chancellor, he kicked the shins of his judges.

"He did not, it is true, mean to act unjustly. He firmly believed he was doing right and defending the cause of the poor against the wealthy. Yet his well-meant meddling probably did more harm than all the explosions of his evil passions during the whole of his long reign. We could makeshift to live under a debauchee or a tyrant, but to be ruled by a busybody is more than human nature can bear."

Representative Sullivan of Massachusetts secured some time to talk on the pure food bill.

"Mr. Chairman," said Sullivan, "this is a constitutional question, and it is impossible to discuss a constitutional question in three minutes."

"But," said Representative Currier of New Hampshire, who was in the chair, "the gentleman has six minutes."

Dr. W. H. Wiley, the Government Chemist, and former Senator Thurston of Nebraska went out to the Columbia Golf Club to play golf.

Wiley started off gaily from the first tee. He topped his drive and the ball rolled into the bunker. Wiley began beating the ball with a niblick. He couldn't get it out. At the fifteenth stroke his caddy lighted a cigarette, sat down on the grass and said: "Well, anyway, it is a fine day."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

This column is open for discussion of public questions. Letters should not exceed 150 words.

More Noise.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your paper I have seen complaints of the noise made by church bells, roosters, dogs, engines, etc., which are bad enough, but I think the most abominable nuisance in the way of noises or sleep disturbers are those milk, butcher, bakery and beer wagons. The street passing my place is paved with brick and every morning at almost daybreak they begin racing by. The drivers act like their lives depend on their noise and speed. It is useless to try to sleep after they begin. I think it a shame to annoy the public in this way when it can so easily be remedied. If those wagons must be out so early, why not pass a law compelling them to put rubber tires on their wheels, which would stop the noise considerably and not be asking too much. DISTURBED.

The Texas Steer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your issue of yesterday, William Stanley suggests that the longhorn Texas steer described in Sunday's Post-Dispatch "would be a whole lot more interesting if he could be kept in Forest Park a few years alive," a view as to which I am open to conviction. Should a few dozen citizens interested in this practically extinct variety of the genus Bos take the trouble to express themselves in writing either to the Park Commissioner or to the Public Museum, the arrangement could doubtless be effected. The Museum and its belongings are designed for the interest and benefit of the St. Louis public, and the institution is ready to meet the people half way. WJ McGEE,
Director St. Louis Public Museum.

The Other Side.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The answer to Mr. George Wayland would say that a dwelling of three rooms and porcelain bath, renting for $11.50 cannot be built in St. Louis to make it pay at the present enormous cost of labor and material. Take off for taxes, insurance, loss in rents, repairs at prohibitive prices, etc., what net income will the investment yield? Rents will come down some, also the present building mania will soon come to an end. In the district between Jefferson and Spring and St. Louis and Laclede avenues there are thousands of vacant dwellings. In the face of this, is there any need for more buildings, heights and additions 15 and 20 miles away from the center of the city? It looks like another get-rich-quick scheme worked by some real estate men.
B. E. HONEST.

Rents and Population.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In answer to the letter referring to high rent, I can say to my knowledge I can name 10 families who would come to St. Louis to live if the rent were reasonable. Men whose employment enables them to live in suburban towns, but from convenience and advantages would prefer living in the city. If one-tenth of the people of St. Louis could bring two families, or even one, how long would we be in getting our million? Would be glad to see this question discussed. ONE OF THEM.

Feminine Viewpoint.

Mrs. Hyker: My husband's creditors ought to be happy because of his bargain failure.

Mrs. Pyker: Bargain failure!

Mrs. Hyker: Yes. He's going to pay them all 49 cents on the dollar.—Chicago News.

The exact number of years, months and days which this represents would be dependent on the date at which the count begins, as leap years, with an extra day, and months varying from 28 to 31 days would enter into the calculation.

LEVENTHAL.—N. O. Nelson recently wrote of Socialism: "The ownership of the means of production and distribution by the people will, I believe, be approved by all Socialists. It fairly represents the fundamental idea. Some few there are who would insist on the people owning and operating it all, and the state directing everything and everybody. This, too, is a popular conception. But the great majority of Socialists simply want the means of earning a living made accessible to all on equal terms and then let each work how, when and where he pleases and get the results, whatever they be. They wish that everyone shall have opportunity and be free in its use. He might work alone on a farm or in a shop or study or studio, or associate with others in operating a factory or a bonanza farm or a steamboat. In every case he would have to pay a rental to cover wear and tear and replacement and increase and governmental expenses."

H. H.—Numerous persons profess to have got rid of bedbugs by using gasoline. Try varnishing thoroughly all woodwork and crevices. Ten cents worth of corrosive sublimate in gasoline is recommended by some slayers. Others use half teaspoonful of powdered napthaline in one quart of turpentine, and spray them with the solution when they come out. There must always be patience and persistence.

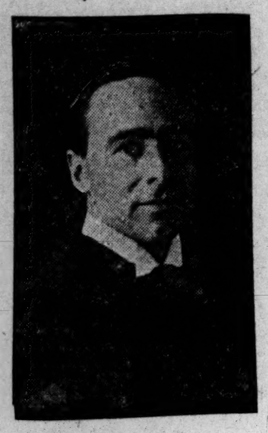
THE ONCE-A-WEEK BOOK CLUB

Other Book Reviews Written for the Post-Dispatch.

IT was possible to discern an especial interest in the demeanor of the Once-a-Week Book Club's members as they met for a discussion of "Coniston" (The MacMillan Co., New York), Winston Churchill's latest novel.

"This St. Louis man, Churchill, is growing faster than any novelist we have," remarked the Artist, "and I must confess that I'm peculiarly concerned in his development. A chap of his age who takes himself so seriously and produces books that sell up into the million mark, must be regarded as a Literary Personage—even if he does come from one's own town."



WINSTON CHURCHILL.

"I knew Churchill when he was a Smith Academy boy here," said the High School Teacher, "and, of course, I've heard all about how he rented an office in the Security Building and locked himself in it and refused to let even his most intimate friends know of his work until he'd finished the writing of 'Richard Carvel.' A youngster of that fiber must always be taken seriously."

"Well," commented the former Congressman, "he's lucky too—or else he possesses the rare political gift of knowing in advance when the people want a change. His first and biggest hit, that same 'Richard Carvel,' was the pioneer of the swashbuckling Colonial costume romance that has since been such a rage in American fiction. Of course, I know that its general basic idea wasn't unlike Thackeray's 'Virginians,' but it had a fire and dash and vivid coloring of adventure not found in the great Englishman's Anglo-American story of Colonial times, and it was these very things that made 'Richard Carvel' such a success. The book won on its own merits."

"The promise of Churchill is found," pointed out the Kindergarten Director, "in the fact that he has a very earnest Americanism in his make-up. 'Richard Carvel' told us a story of the American Colonies, 'The Crisis' of the American Civil War, 'The Crossing' of the great movement from the older States that resulted in the conquest and settlement of the American Middle West—and now we have, in 'Coniston,' the story of the Boss in American politics."

"I notice, too," said the former Congressman, "that he presents Jethro Bass, the New England Boss, as a type of a disappearing class, telling us, indeed, that the Corporation era follows the Boss era, the Boss being ultimately destroyed by corporate influence, which itself demands an absolute control of politics. There's truth in that, up to a certain point—only, we still have the Boss in the figure of the Master Mind of the corporations."

"It struck me, however," criticized the Old Playgoer, "that he shows us too much of the softer side of Jethro Bass—made him too sentimental to be dramatically forceful. Of course, we all know that every man, no matter how hard and masterful, has a bit of tenderness in him somewhere, but Winston Churchill keeps this side of Jethro Bass too constantly in evidence. Consequently, we miss the full effect of the dominant phase of Jethro Bass' personality—that aspect of him which accounts for his being a Boss in politics."

"It's Churchill's own limitations that account for this," said the High School Teacher. "He hasn't been thrown out into the struggle of American life himself, and his knowledge of men and politics is that of the library, not of the fighting-ground. That's why he fails to give us the true battling figure of old Jethro, even though attempting it more than once, and, also, why he turns so often to the reverse of the picture. As a man of imagination, sheltered in his own study, he knows more of sentiment than of strife in the raw. He makes a very likable character of Jethro Bass, however."

"Too likable," returned the former Congressman. "You fear or admire the Boss in politics, but you seldom like him. He makes a candidate of the 'likable' man—and then he jams him through to victory by smashing the life out of his enemies. And this softening of the Boss for romance's sake is fatal—please notice that Jethro Bass at the finish 'throws down' all his own stanch and loyal friends in order to buy a husband for the girl whom he loved beyond all else in the world—the daughter of his own old-time sweetheart."

"I thought this girl, Cynthia Wetherell, a very delightful figure, indeed," ventured the Literary Grain Broker. "The story of her love for Bob Worthington, the son of Jethro Bass' bitterest enemy, was well told. And I was glad it came out right in the end—even if Jethro Bass did have to betray his own following to get Bob for Cynthia."

"Right there is where I didn't like Bob Worthington!" cried The Girl. "I was hoping all the time that he'd be man enough to make Cynthia elope with him and then snap his fingers at his hard-hearted father! I resented poor old Jethro's sacrifice for Cynthia's sake—it wasn't fair to the grim old fighter!"

"Good for you!" exclaimed the former Congressman. "It makes Jethro Bass strike a false note—and that's the unpardonable sin in character creation. It would have been fine—and natural, too—if, with Bob and Cynthia safely married, Jethro had then been 'easy' with old Worthington and refrained from crushing him. That would have been a far more consistent and satisfying finish than is the 'sell-out' by Jethro as the price of old Worthington's consent to the marriage."

"Well, an author can't please everybody," said the Kindergarten Director. "It seems to me that Winston Churchill has written a strong and notable novel—and the New England atmosphere is simply exquisite in its truthfulness to life."

"I agree with you," joined in the Artist. "But how does Winston Churchill, a Westerner from St. Louis, get this Down East atmosphere so perfectly?"

"By inheritance," pointed out the High School Teacher. "He comes of New England stock, and it's in his blood. It's what led him to go back to New Hampshire when he made his literary success—the love of the home of his fathers."

"I reckon that's the truth," said the former Congressman. "But I never thought of it before."

"IN THE HEART OF THE CANADIAN ROCKIES."

Ruskin says "Mountains are the beginning and the end of all natural scenery," and those of us whose love of them is as everlasting as they will delight in this beautiful and unusual book. It is written by James Outram, and published by the McMillan Co., with an abundance of fine photographs of such montain scenery as some of us had not, perhaps, known North America to possess. Mr. Outram says he went to the Canadian Rockies to refresh his brain after overwork, and that he did refresh it is easily proven by the enthusiasm with which he writes. He has the distinction of having been first man up on Mount Columbia, 12,500 feet; Mount Lyell, 11,950 feet; Mount Assiniboine, 11,860 feet; Mount Bryce, 11,750 feet; Mount Alexandria, 11,650 feet; Consolation Peak, 11,200 feet; Mount Victoria (north peak), 11,150 feet, and a number of the lesser giants of that beautiful region, and his stories of his attacks upon and victories over these great mountains read like a romance.

Last summer we had in St. Louis a French Prince returning from a tour of the Western United States. He complained that the absence of glaciers and snow disappointed him sorely, and he was rather brutally candid in declaring the mountains of Switzerland infinitely superior to our own from a scenic point of view. If our guest had but ventured into the Canadian Rockies, which have been the scene of Mr. Outram's explorations, he would have found glaciers and snow and Alpine beauty in a wealth of profusion which even Switzerland cannot boast. It is to be hoped, for the sake of America, that the Prince will be so fortunate as to see Mr. Outram's book.

"THE LIFE OF ANIMALS."

Ernest Ingersoll, the naturalist, is the author of "The Life of Animals (Mammals)," published by the McMillan Co. It is a pretentious work of 555 pages, generously illustrated, and deals with the mammalia of the universe in this and former time. Mr. Ingersoll has happily embraced both the menagerie and the paleontological museum in this entertaining book. It is possible to make natural history popular with no loss of scientific precison, and Mr. Ingersoll writes as entertainingly and instructively of the great saber-tooth tiger, which was one time the king of beasts in America, as he does of the modern Bengal. A capital mixture of science, of anecdote and of the things most interesting of one of the most fascinating of all subjects is "The Life of Animals." Even man has his chapter, and this is an interesting paragraph from it:

"Some fossil bones found in 1894 in Java by Prof. Eugene Du Bois are of extreme interest, because they represent a creature between man and the highest apes which lived in the early Pliocene epoch next preceding the Glacial epoch. Only the top of the skull, a thigh bone and two teeth are known; and they indicate an erect walking animal about 5 feet 6 inches tall, which in general appearance, and in having a brain capacity almost equal to that of the earliest known human beings (the cave dwellers of the Neanderthal in France), was much nearer man than is any modern ape. This creature is truly, as Prof. Haeckel puts it, 'the long-searched-for missing link,' in other words, represents the commencement of humanity. It is named Pithecanthropus Erectus."

BALZAC'S LIMITATIONS.

The late Dr. R. M. Buck, in his remarkable work on "Cosmic Consciousness," includes Balzac among the minor cases of those who have probably experienced that sudden and inexplicable illumination of the intellect and emotions which amounts to a new state of being. For this reason, the critical study of Balzac by Taine, just published by Funk & Wagnalls in English, is of unusual interest to those who are students of human nature.

The book has been translated by Lorenzo O'Rourke of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has written an appreciation of Taine, as an introduction, which is itself of great value, Taine being little known, in his personal life and character, to American readers. This study of Taine is all the more interesting, because he was so different in character to Balzac, upon whom he is here passing judgment. Taine was all cool science—Balzac all fiery enthusiasm.

Readers of Balzac who have not merely perused his Human Comedy as represented in the several volumes usually found at public libraries, but have come across some of his less known and interdicted writings, will agree with Taine's estimate of his great French contemporary. Balzac cannot be classed with Shakspeare or the other greatest masters in literature. Broad indeed, but his breadth did not exceed that of Paris, and too often found its limit within her slums. His world was the world of the financier, the city man, the artizan, the tradesman, the bourgeois of both sexes and every grade, particularly the lowest. He would have been lost in the pure air of the mountain or forest. That he wrote his interdicted stories precisely at the time when Dr. Buck supposes he underwent that illumination which makes a man what Paul calls "a new creature," appears to show that the good doctor did not thoroughly know his Balzac.

"IF YOUTH BUT KNEW."

Alice and Edgerton Castle, whose books are so good that at least two of them—"The Pride of Jennico" and "The Bath Comedy"—have been popular plays upon the American stage, are the authors of "If Youth but Knew," published by the McMillan Co. The book has been one of the popular novels of the early summer, and a review of it now is too tardy to do more than indorse the general good opinion of it. It is a story of Westphalia in the time of Jerome Bonaparte, and is characterized by that cleverness and highly romantic flavor characteristic of the earlier works of these gifted authors. If you have not read it you will find in it many pleasant hours, though it is hardly so good a story, all in all, as "The Pride of Jennico," which so handsomely served Mr. James K. Hackett when he was at the zenith of his reign as a matinee idol. "If Youth But Knew" has a somewhat tedious and over-poetic beginning, but the story warms up as it moves along, and there is no quarrel with its finish, either as romance or drama.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

Dr. Emil Reich, who has delivered himself of some pretty severe strictures on American woman and others, and who poses as an authority on the sex, has a quite ferocious temper, although ordinarily it is under control and his manners are mild. He can on occasion, however, become actually ferocious. He is above medium height, has hair mixed with gray, a high forehead, keen eyes and a sallow skin. He is of Hungarian birth and married a little French woman who is devoted to him. The couple have one daughter, of whom they are extremely proud. The Reich home is in most fashionable Bayswater, in London, and is filled with books. Dr. Reich is a linguist, speaking six languages with ease. He deems the whole mission of woman is to bear children. He is an exceptionally good pianist and knew Wagner, Liszt and Brahms, but has a preference for the music of Mozart.

Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt has established a new industry on the Biltmore estate, the object of which is to give employment to women. The women weave on hand looms a wool texture which is much like the English homespun, so much esteemed for tailored suits and gowns intended for hard wear. A heavy all-wool cloth is also made, suitable for draperies and curtains. Nothing but wool from sheep raised on the estate is used in making these yards and the fabrics are all colored with vegetable dyes, absolutely strong and fadeless.

A French actress recently rented an apartment in Paris, but found when she entered into possession that it had no telephone and that no mirror had been fixed. She thereupon sued her landlord, who was ordered to pay 100 francs compensation for "deprivation of enjoyments."

Miss Carolyn Patch, a Los Angeles girl, has been appointed general secretary of the British-American Young Women's Christian Association in Paris. She is an accomplished linguist and chiefly on this account was chosen secretary.

Miss Margery Bell of Chicago has "broken the world's record" by throwing a baseball 204 feet and 4 inches. She is a member of the University High School in Chicago and her father is assistant general passenger agent of a railroad, but was once an amateur ball-player.

A new work for woman is that of fire adjuster for insurance companies, and when one comes to think about it the companies would often save money if they had the orphan of a disinterested woman concerning the damage that household furniture had really sustained in a fire.

Just the Same.

It is related that Major-General Wood was prevailed upon one evening at a Washington Club to recount some experiences of the Cuban campaign. Among the members of the club who furnished the audience for Gen. Wood was a well-known physician.

"And how do you feel, General," he asked, with a trace of sarcasm, "after you have professionally killed a man?"

"Oh," responded Wood, carelessly, "we don't mind it any more than you do."

SKIN ECZEMA IN WORST FORM

Black Splotches All Over Face—Produced Severe Itching—Year's Treatment by Physicians Did No Good and Became Despondent—Affected Parts Now Clear as Ever—Alabama Lady's

CURE BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of annoyance and suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of my town. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for the same for the length of one year, but the treatment did me no good.

"Finally I became despondent and decided to discontinue their services. Shortly afterwards, my husband in reading a copy of a weekly New York paper saw an advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies. He purchased the entire outfit, and after using the contents of the first bottle of Cuticura Resolvent in connection with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the breaking out entirely stopped. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every splotch was entirely gone and the affected parts were left as clear as ever. I have not felt a symptom of the eczema since, which was three years ago.

"The Cuticura Remedies not only cured me of that dreadful disease, eczema, but other complicated troubles as well; and I have been the means of others being cured of the same disease by the Cuticura Remedies, and I don't hesitate in saying that the Resolvent is the best blood medicine that the world has ever known." CLEVELAND CLUB'S CHAMPION CALIBER

Not Any Team That Has Come This Way During the Present Season at All Approaches the Blue Birds in General, All Round Strength and Appearance.

From the very beginning to the very end of Friday's baseball game at Sportsman's Park those magnificent fellows from Cleveland kept hitting Pitcher Smith of the Ravens to and over the fence. Upon the other hand, St. Louis could not hit Bernhard very hard at any time. So it came about that Cleveland won, 12—2.

While it is quite true that Cleveland did make its first five runs on two hits—errors contributed—it is none the less a fact that the smiting given Smith was, in a great measure, responsible for the errors. For instance, the very first man up, Flick, hoisted a high fly to the very left-field fence. Stone, squeezed up against the wooden wall, did get under the ball and, perhaps, should have held it. The proximity of the fence, however, bothered him so that he dropped it.

The Attack Gathered Force.

So it was throughout. Errors served, but the ball was hit so hard that the mistakes were pardonable. And though Smith began fairly well, as far as hits went, there was always that feeling in the stands that the cyclone of hits was due at any moment. True, the wind gathered force inning by inning until in the ninth it broke into a fierce twister that threatened to sweep the Ravens from the face of the earth. Then it was that Smith had it all to himself and the Cleveland club. A single by Flick, a hit by pitcher, an out by Turner on a terrific liner, a single by Lajoie, a base on balls to Rossman, a wicked drive by Congalton, that almost took the left arm off O'Brien and long doubles by Bradley and Clarke sent in six runs. No errors here.

So, also, was Smith responsible for the three runs scored by Cleveland in the third inning. With one out and Flick on first, Jackson hit a nice bounder to the pitcher. It was a certain double play. Smith fumbled the ball, recovered and threw to second too late. Had he fielded cleanly, for thrown to first upon recovery, he would have averted the avalanche which came when Lajoie doubled and Rossman singled.

So, you see, the loss of this game was all due to Smith. He has pitched splendid ball this season, beaten Cleveland twice in Cleveland, but it was his day to get beaten at home.

The Other Side of It.

There is another side to it. One would hate to quarrel with Stone for missing Flick's nasty fly for the man has done too much fine work in left field to be quirked for one trifling misplay. So also has O'Brien at second to be berated for letting Jackson's grounder buffet and play him about the lot in the same inning. In his anxiety to cover ground, Hartzell made a bad play in the eighth and retrieved it with a fine double immediately. So he is not to blame either.

But behind it all lies the concealed and hidden and quailing fact that the Ravens did not hit.

Bernhard is no ghost. He can be hit. Once the writer saw Mike Donlin break all long hitting records and drive him out of a game by hitting the first ball pitched to the clubhouse in League Park, 147 yards 6 inches actual measurement. He did not seem to have much on Friday, but the Ravens, bar Jones, could not hit him.

A fine double by the first baseman, post-dating a questionable infield single by Niles, gave them their two runs. Thereafter they did not have a chance. And it did seem, with all due respect to Mr. Sheridan, that Niles almost was out instead of safe at first in this inning.

Great Fielding by Cleveland.

Withal, it is but fair to say that the pernicious activity of the Cleveland fielders smothered many an incipient hit. Lajoie twice ran over second base and turned Niles' well-meant drives into easy outs. Once he took what seemed a certain single from Stone. In each case this truly wonderful and admirable player, stimulated either by blind luck or true baseball instinct, started from his position for the subsequent rendezvous long before the ball was hit. It may have been true baseball prescience or it may have been blind, blazing luck, but that he did these most wonderful things is the naked and unvarnished truth.

Turner, too, gave a magical display. His stop and throw of Jones' shrieking drive in the sixth and his essay on Stone's shot in the third were plays which brought him the generous and unstinted applause of foreign, but fair, stands.

In sooth, while it seems that the Ravens need not break ground before New York or Philadelphia or Detroit or any other team in the American League, they are really not in the same class as this truly splendid club which Monsieur Lajoie is now managing in our midst. Great hitters, great fielders, great throwers, they bear the appearance and act the part of true champions. Big men, strong men, fast men and men in every way, there have been no clubs this way this year that are in the class of these splendid Cleveland ballplayers.

TENNIS TRIALS SET FOR SATURDAY

Rain Causes Postponement of Morning Games in Triple A Tournament.

The matches scheduled for Saturday morning in the women's tennis tournament at the Triple A in Forest Park were declared off on account of the wet condition of the courts. Play will be resumed at 5 p. m. if the weather permits and the courts have dried out sufficiently to admit of play.

The matches will be between Miss Elma Rumsey and Mrs. Erwin Hilts against Miss Mimi Garesche and Miss Isabella Hull for the doubles championship, and Paul Gleeson and Miss Garesche against Robert Wilson and Miss Elma Rumsey in the mixed doubles.

The final in the singles will not be played until Monday, when Miss Garesche will meet either Miss Elma Rumsey or her sister, Mrs. Erwin Hilts. The winner of the match will contest in a challenge round with Mrs. Charles McClure Clark for the Post-Dispatch cup emblematic of the singles championship of the city of St. Louis.

Miss Garesche defeated Mrs. T. B. Entz in the feature contest of Friday's play, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Garesche played a game remarkable for accuracy and skill and volleyed and Lawforded with surprising ability.

Tula lady seems to be in excellent form and Mrs. Hiltz, who enjoys a reputation of never having been beaten at golf or tennis, will have to be at her best to defeat her.

Mrs. Entz was unfortunate in her service, but played a game that was creditable for pluck and gameness.

Miss Elma Rumsey defeated Miss Bertha Rombauer in a close match, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

In the doubles Miss Garesche and Miss Irabella Hull won from Miss Christine Graham and Miss Barbara Scott, 6-1, 6-0.

TO TAKE EVIDENCE IN THE TIDD CASE

McCargo and Stephens Appointed to Investigate Important Affair.

Wallace McCargo and Charles Stephens were appointed Friday night by W. A. A. U. officials to take evidence in the case of Harry Tidd, the Missouri University runner, who was disqualified in the recent Playgrounds meet for not having started from the mark allotted to him by Handicapper Bland.

At the meeting Friday, Charles W. Bassett, athletic director, Dwight Parker, a Missouri University runner and teammate of Tidd, and Sard Smith, who officiated as clerk of the course, were the only persons who gave testimony.

An affidavit was read from Tidd, in which he swore that he had started from the mark indicated as his starting point by Smith. In his affidavit, however, he did not state that this was the three-yard mark. Smith, in testifying, admitted that he did not know where he placed Tidd.

Bassett and Parker gave favorable testimony for Tidd.

Tom Aitken, who officiated as starter; S. C. Douglas, scratch man in the event; L. O. Cornelius, who started on the 5-yard mark; Danny Dillon, who observed the way the race was run, and Keenan Shock, who says some other runner started on the 12-yard mark with him, were not asked for testimony.

McCargo and Stephens are to report the result of their findings next Friday night.

THOMAS TO TOP W. U. AT BASEBALL

Spencer Thomas, '08, at a meeting of the members of the Washington University baseball team held Friday, was elected captain of the Myrtle and Maroon 1907 nine.

Thomas was the best first baseman in collegiate circles during the season just closed and his appointment was well received by adherents of the Pikeway institution.

He is a hard hitter, excellent fielder, fair baserunner and is well liked by his associates, and Washington's baseball season should be a successful one during his regime.

Thomas is a skilled pole-vaulter and a clever rugby football player, as well as a diamond artist, and is expected to be one of the mainstays of the Tiger eleven on the gridiron the coming season.

Kreidler claims to have $1000, which he is willing and anxious to wager on his chances against any man living. It is said that Mal Doyle is looking for him with a man who needs the thousand.

RAUB'S THROW TOSSED IT OFF

Mistake in Judgment and Execution by the Cardinal Catcher Loses Game.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 23.—Raub's bad throw in the opening inning gave Friday's game to the Pittsburg Pirates 2 to 1. With one out and Clark on second and Ganley on third, Wagner hit to McBride, who threw to the plate, Raub getting Ganley on the play. Wagner turned first on the play and made a bluff for second. Raub made made a heave to first to catch Wagner. The ball went ten feet over the pate of the Hannibal man. Clarke scored and Wagner went to third. Those two runs ended the game in the Pirate's favor right there.

Certainly this was disheartening to young Brown, but he was not over discouraged and went right along pitching excellent baseball. Hostetter played third base for the Cardinals and put up a startling exhibition of rapid fielding. His three base hit to the flag pole in the seventh followed by Shannon's hit netted St. Louis their only run.

Luck was against the Cardinals in the ninth. Hostetter came to bat in this period and there was only one down. Then the rain began to fall in great drops. Hostetter had his eye on the ball and drove the first two pitched flush against the left field fence, but the drives were foul. The third ball he fouled off over the grandstand, then the umpire called the game.

Barring Raab's inexcusable poor throw to first, both teams played well in the field.

Although defeated, the Cardinals showed some signs of life. Liefield held the Cardinals to five hits, while the Pirates were only able to get a similar number off Brown.

CAMPBELL TO JOIN KULAGE'S ROOKERY.

Vin Campbell, the 17-year-old giant, who backstopped, batted and ran bases in such a sensational fashion for the Smith Academy baseball team during the season just closed, has promised Henry Kulage, the manager of the White Seals of the Trolley League, to play ball for the Seals this year if the champions need his services.

Campbell was the individual star of the football season of the Interscholastic League last year and is a clever shotputter and sprinter, and the report that he contemplates playing professional baseball will be received with surprise by his frends, who expected him to duplicate his St. Louis athletic performances at Vanderbilt University, the institution of learning which he is to attend during the school season of 1906-1907.

If he joins the Kulage forces his appearance in the games of the Trolley League will bar him from future participation in all college sports.

Paul McSweeney, manager of the White Seals, is anxious to obtain Campbell, whom he regards as one of the greatest youngsters ever developed in St. Louis.

Charlie Mansur, the Smith shortstop, was in receipt of an offer from the Seals, but rejected it. Mansur will be a student at Vanderbilt next year and will try to make the baseball team.

Kulage has been showing marked activity of late in trying to obtain option on young players on account of the offers being made to his men by managers of the minor leagues. Mattox, the left fielder of the champions, has received an offer from Zimmer of the Little Rock team and other players are said t obe the objects of attention of minor league magnates.

Clark, the catcher of the Blues, is a sweet hitting backstop. He rapped out a single and a double out of four times at bat Friday.

COUNTRY CLUB IN THE GOLF FINAL

Ralph McKittrick and Arthur Stickney Will Play for City Championship of St. Louis Saturday Morning and Afternoon.

Ralph McKittrick and Arthur Stickney, winners in the semi-finals of the city golf championship at the Country Club links, will meet and settle the championship Saturday.

They will play 36 holes, 18 in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

Mr. McKittrick defeated A. B. Lambert Friday six up and five to play. Mr. Stickney won from Sam C. Davis, nine up and seven to play.

These matches constituted the semi-finals. Both resulted as expected by followers of the game.

Stickney's overwhelming defeat of Davis was not looked for. Both McKittrick and Stickney played in excellent form. McKittrick's medal score for the 12 holes was 53, two under bogey. Stickney's score for 11 holes was 47. Bogey for the first 11 holes is 48. Judging from these figures the finals should be well contested by these two stylish players.

As a result of Lambert's sensational victory over Stickney Thursday quite a gallery followed the Lambert-McKittrick match.

From start to finish McKittrick seemed to keep the game well in hand. His driving and putting were excellent.

As a starter McKittrick was 15 feet away from the hole on the green at No. 1. Lambert was on the edge of the green in No. 2 and rolled up within twelve foot of the hole on his third stroke.

McKittrick holed his 15-foot put, giving him the hole ¾. McKittrick was favored by fortune on No. 2. Lambert landed in the tall grass. McKittrick's approach shot hit the flag in the hole. Lambert's approach only landed him on the end of the green, and McKittrick holed his putt, giving him the hole and making him two up. McKittrick's drive and play for No. 3 was well executed. McKittrick gained the third hole ¾.

Both players were wild on drives for No. 4. They halved the hole in five. Lambert's play on the green at No. 5. It was good.

Driving off for No. 6 McKittrick topped his ball and sent it bounding for about only fifty feet. No. 6 is Long Tom, a 600-yard hole and a very dubious proposition. One four strokes. McKittrick helped the ball up to within eight feet of the flag. He holed in five, giving him the point 5-6, and making him three up.

McKittrick drove wild for No. 7. Lambert dropped his ball in on five. McKittrick holed in 6. Lambert's drive for No. 8 dropped on the green, but on the boundary line. McKittrick's drive brought the ball 50 feet from the green. McKittrick's approach was a nice one, bringing the ball within four feet of the cup. Lambert's approach was but five feet off. Both landed, halving the cup in three.

McKittrick gained No. 9, 4-5, again making him three up. McKittrick gained No. 10, 4-5, making Lambert four down. Ill luck kept Lambert from winning No. 11, McKittrick gaining the hole 4-5. This made McKittrick five up. Lambert should also have won No. 12. He dropped his ball over the track nicely on the drive. McKittrick's approach was over strong and rolled past the hole 10 feet. The hole was halved in four.

Lambert over-rolled the hole on his second shot for No. 13. Lambert's approach was poor, he only getting to the edge of the green. He then rolled the ball to within five feet of the hole and again missed, giving him a six. McKittrick's approach brought the ball to within 15 feet of the hole, from where he missed, but he toppled it in from the edge on four, giving him the hole 4-6, and the match six up and five to play.

BASEBALL BABBLE

Mr. Robert E. Lee Hedges, president of the St. Louis American League Baseball Club, said at 10 a. m. Saturday that the diamond at Sportsman Park was in playing condition and that if there was no more rain, the scheduled game between Cleveland and St. Louis for the afternoon would surely take place.

Cleveland found Smith an entirely easy proposition to solve. The visitors from the Buckeye State simply slaughtered the Dayton phenom.

Bernhard, who twirled for the Clevelands Friday, had the index finger on his right hand split in the eighth inning of Friday's game. A shot from Hemphill's bat did the work. So hard did Hemphill hit the ball that Bernhard could not get out of the way. Speaking of the injury after the game, Bernhard said: "That ball was surely stung. It fairly blazed through the air. I tried to get out of the way, but couldn't. It was one of the hardest hit balls ever directed my way." Bernhard was forced to retire. Hess took his place on the firing line and retired the necessary four men in order.

When it comes to playing short field with ease, grace and precision, few, indeed, are the men who can teach Turner of Cleveland anything. Terry put up a magnificent exhibition. His play on Stone in the third inning, when he took the latter's hard grounder between short and second, was a very neat piece of fielding.

Cleveland's batting Friday was the prettiest exhibition of club swinging seen on a local green this season.

O'Brien attempted steal second in the seventh inning. He tore from first to second with about the same ease and grace as one would expect from an overfed pachyderm. It was simply a shame the way he kept Lajoie waiting to touch him.

Bay is still out of the game with an injured leg. Congalton, who is taking the fleet one's place, is an admirable substitute. He rapped out two nice hits Friday.

Rickey's magnificent slide to first base in the seventh inning of Friday's game was all that saved the good throwing catcher from being tossed out.

If there is any club that looks more like pennant winners than those Clevelands Ban Johnson could save time by having the bunting ordered for them now.

There has been a persistent rumor afloat for some time that Bradley has weak lungs. That strong, healthy wallop born of Bradley's bat in the fourth inning Friday should give the lie to that nonsense for a long time to come.

A publication recently called attention to the number of big fellows on the Chicago Nationals, winding up by declaring that they were the biggest team in the business and deserving of the sobriquet of Giants. If any club deserves that title it is Cleveland. The men in blue are veritable giants. Eels, Bernhard, Joss and Hess are all giggish men. Then Rossman, Lajoie and Bradley form the three biggest guardians of the bases that have played them for years. Flick, Congalton and Jackson are by no means pigmies. The honor of being the biggest team in the country lies between those Blues and the Nationals of Washington. Falkenberg, Hughes and Kitson and surely big pitchers. Stahl and Schlafly and Altizer are big infielders, while Anderson, Jones and Hickman form a big outfield.

Lajoie led his club with the bat Friday. He slapped out a double and two singles.

Clansmen of Auld Reekie Will Hold Their Annual Picnic at Normandy Grove.

The track and field athletes of the M. A. C. are busy these days training for the annual games of the Scottish Clans, which are to be held July 4 at Ramona Park. The Cherry Diamond squad reports for practice Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the Triple A grounds, where it exercises under the eye of Athletic Director Bassett.

Keenan Shock is doing excellent work in the 220, and is expected to give Charlie Drehman a close race for the decision in the 440.

Culver Hastedt has been going poorly and seems to be all in.

Jenkins, Parker, Crouch and Tidd, the Missouri University runners, who have lately joined the club, will run in the M. A. C. colors July 4.

Eugene Salisbury, the great pitcher of the 1906 Missouri University ball team, has joined the M. A. C., and twirled Friday for the Cherry Diamond boys against the Wagoner Place team. Salisbury struck out nine men and let his opponents down with three hits.

John C. Meyers has completed all arrangements for the three-mile swim of the aquatic squad Sunday morning, at Clifton Terrace, and expects a large proportion of the members of the squad will take to the water on that occasion.

HANDBALL LADDIES LOSE THEIR SCRIBE

Press Agent Collona of the Seven Company Has Been Transferred.

The firemen of No. 7 Engine House are mourning the loss of the secretary of their handball association, Morris Colona, who has been promoted to a lieutenancy and assigned to Engine Company No. 38, at Grand and Potomac street.

Colona was the press agent, scribe and personal representative of the handball association, and his tales of the prowess of Paddy Winters and Dick Shaughnessy last fall were given considerable space in the local press.

Fitzgerald and Grant, the boy handball champions of No. 17's have joined the club of Father Courtney of St. Kevin's parish, who is an enthusiastic advocate of the great Celtic game.

Father Courtney on his own initiative had a court constructed in the yard of St. Kevin's school at Cardinal and Park avenues, and is now conducting a tournament to determine the championship of the parish.

A silver loving cup will be given to the winner.

DISTANCE RUNS GO AT NORMANDY

A three-mile footrace for the championship of Normandy and the adjacent suburban towns in the vicinity of the old French settlement is to be run Saturday, June 30, between William Don Brawner and Lamotte Cates, both sons of old settlers.

Normandy has quite a number of clever athletes among her sons, some of the most prominent members of the St. Louis University football eleven hailing from that suburb.

Cates and Brawner ran a three-mile race last Wednesday, the former finishing first, after an interesting struggle. The start was made at Ferguson at 11:15. Brawner took the lead and set a hot pace for his rival, who trotted at the leader's heels for the first two miles. As the runners passed the two-mile mark Cates assumed the lead and held it until near the finish, when Brawner passed him, breasting the tape first in the fast time of 17m. 45s.

Although the run was across country for a part of the route, horsemen, autos and carriages followed the runners for a great portion of the race, the event attracting unusual attention, as there is considerable rivalry between the two boys.

Brawner is said to have set a record for the course of 15m. 9s., which has never been equaled.

COUNTRY CLUB NINE DONE FOR SEASON

Joe Wear, manager of the Country Club baseball nine, has announced the disbandment of the nine for the season of 1906.

The team made an excellent showing on the baseball diamond, among other teams Washington University, Smith Academy, Christian Brothers' College and the University Club nine succumbing to their superior baseball skill.

The Wear Brothers—Joe, Arthur, Jim and Holliday—were the nucleus of the nine in all its struggles.

They alternated in every position on the team, although during their college career Joe was the regular shortstop, Arthur center fielder, Holliday second baseman and Jim third baseman of Yale University team.

Other members of the team who performed excellently on the field and with the stick were Dave Francis Jr., Perry Francis, Clarence Gamble, Percy Blackwell, Bert Walker and George Reynolds.

The only defeat registered against the Country Club was by the Christian Brothers' College nine, 8 to 7. The game was called at the beginning of the seventh inning with two Country Club players on base and one man out, in order to let the polo men have the field.

The success of the baseball nine duplicated that of the socker team of the club men, which defeated the Christian Brothers' and other crack elevens.

THE SPORTSMAN'S NICHE

I have always been at a loss to explain, or to understand, the surprising failure of each succeeding year to produce new and promising golfers in St. Louis and the disinclination some young golfers display towards entering the annual championship and other attractive tournament events about St. Louis and elsewhere.

Year after year we find the same worthy, but ancient, names, at the top of the lists of local golf tournaments. Indeed, it may be said with some truth that Travis and Travers are always at the top about New York, and that the Egans hold similar positions about Chicago. But these men are national champions de facto, world's champion de jure, while we have not in St. Louis even a divisional champion.

I know many promising young golfers in St. Louis, the Carletons, Mansurs, Vickerys and others who do not enter tournament play or who may enter and display sad indifference to play. They qualify and forfeit even in the championship event. If they, by some accident, fail to qualify for highest honors they refuse to play for secondary trophies.

This is not the true sporting, and, least of all, the true golfing spirit. For the beauty of golf lies in play at it, not in the winning of trophies.

The other day Mr. Arthur Stickney was pleased to introduce the writer to a friend of his as "the man who has always been hammering at the golfers of St. Louis." Mr. Stickney meant kindly, but overstated the facts. I have not been hammering at the golfers of St. Lous unless beseeching them to play a better game, to play for the sake of the grand sport itself, to take part in great events for the honor of their city and themselves, can properly be called hammering.

I have been accused by men of dull comprehension of hammering the men who play baseball for salaries on the professional baseball teams which perform in St. Louis. I cannot draw comparisons between baseball mercenaries who may represent a city in professional baseball leagues and the amateurs who represent it in golf tournaments. For the golfers are of the city and truly represent it. I have never heard of lurid Hessians winning glory for my lord on the battlefield. Patriotism is the basis of all martial glory. Therefore the glory reflected upon a city by its amateur athletes and sportsmen is effulgent, a glowing halo of pure civicism, that which is fetched by paid professionals but a sad memory of the golden reality. I cannot take any civic pride in the achievements of a band of hired men, greatly as I may admire the beauty of the high-class demonstration they may furnish. I admire baseball irrespective of the final disposal of victory when its beauties are thoroughly made manifest by performers of the highest—which, of course, is the professional—class.

There my admiration and interest begins and ends.

It is different with golf. I know and hold in very warm regard the men who play golf and swim and canoe and run and jump about St. Louis. They are citizens of the municipality and of the best sort. Above all, before all, they play at their games for love and for glory, whereas professional baseball players play for money and money and would as soon wear the emblem and bear the name of any other city—nay, oftentimes much sooner—provided, always, there was more money in it for them.

So I view the disposition of young golfers about St. Louis to regard their sport carelessly with regret. It is beyond all others the game for business men. Every man, young or old, should have some exercise. Golf is that most suitable for a vast majority. Not by any means a spectacular game, there are things in it which call for more cold, clean pluck and self-command than can be found in all the other games put together. No game so tries the nerve and fits man for mental strife as golf. It is beyond all scintilla of a doubt the game of the true sportsman as distinguished from the mere sporting man. These are some of the reasons why I take such an interest in golf and would see it grow and flourish in St. Louis. I want to see the young men play it as well as the old. Its finest development is to be sure in private play, but for the honor and glory of St. Louis I would be glad to see the youth of the city shine in the tournaments of the world.

DODGERS TOLD OF THEIR MARRIAGE

Practical Joker Embarrasses Young Bride at Union Station.

Dodgers freely distributed to the thousands of travelers at the Union Station at noon Saturday greatly embarrassed Miss Edwina Dierkes of 6826 Chamberlin avenue, who had at 9 o'clock been married in a West End church to Algy Daly of 1224 Goodfellow avenue. The dodger proclaimed: "Just married, Edwina to Algy. Refreshments will be served by the bridegroom in the Pullman. Everybody welcome."

When the many persons waiting for trains read the handbills and eyed the young married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Daly were completely abashed. There was no place they could go to be free from the stare of the curious. Idlers followed and twitted them. The couple found it unbearable and it was with positive relief they stepped upon a 1 o'clock train for the East.

The handbills were the work of a practical joker among their friends. He had been free with printer's ink. Every man, woman and baby in the station had one of the bills.

The young bride turned towards the rail between the midway and the train shed and partially covered her face with her handkerchief. Friends gathered at the depot to bid them farewell tried to console the young woman, but she was well-night inconsolable. She did not appreciate the joke and was glad when she was free from the gaze of the others.

Mrs. Daly is 22 years old. Her husband is 26.

GIRL COMING FROM PARTY LOCKED UP

Father Gets a Piece of Matron's Mind After Daughter's Release.

Because Miss Clara Gerber, a pretty girl of 16, attended a party against his command, her father, Henry W. Gerber, led her to the Alton Police Station at 11 o'clock Friday night and induced Capt. Ashlock to confine her in the detention room.

When Matron Demuth arrived Saturday morning and heard the girl's story, she took the tearful prisoner home and gave the father a piece of her mind.

Miss Gerber was invited to a party at the home of Harry S. Bilderbeck, 1234 Pearl street, but her father said she should not go. She was already dressed, had made up her mind to go, and she went. She had a good time, and a young man escorted her to her home after the affair was over.

The two were met at the gate by Gerber, who relieved the youth of his daughter's company and took her to Capt. Ashlock. He demanded that the girl be locked up, saying she was incorrigible and would not obey him. The Captain did as requested.

BRYAN CHEERED BY NORWEGIANS

Delegates to Coronation of Haakon Invite Nebraskan to Speak.

TRONDHJEM, June 23.—The Norwegian-American delegates to the coronation of King Haakon held a meeting this afternoon in the garden of the Archbishop's palace, under the shadow of the Cathedral, and invited William J. Bryan to address them. When Mr. Bryan appeared he was presented with American and Norwegian flags and the crowd cheered him.

Mr. Bryan said that, judging Norway by her sons who come to America, he wanted to offer her his congratulations. He declared that Norway had achieved high civilization without losing any of her early rugged strength, a thing nations rarely achieved. He hoped the country's prosperity would be as long as her days were now.

TWO ACQUITTED OF POSTAL FRAUD

Green and Doremus Were Charged With Conspiracy and Bribery.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The jury in the case of Green and Doremus, charged with postal frauds, found them not guilty on both charges of conspiracy and bribery.

The jury came in at 1:50 p. m. Before the verdict was rendered, Justice Gould admonished the people in the courtroom that there should be no demonstrations under penalty of contempt. Court adjourned immediately, after which Messrs. Green and Doremus were warmly congratulated. Neither would make any statement.

There is one more case against Green, but the Government's intention is not known.

GREATER WEBSTER GROVES PROPOSED

Maplewood Man Has Plan for Consolidation of Three Suburbs.

J. W. Peeler of Maplewood, backed by a number of business men in that suburb and Greenwood, has begun a movement looking to the annexing of Maplewood and Greenwood by Webster Groves, to form a city of the third class with a population of 10,000.

He calls his movement a movement for a Greater Webster Groves, but many in Webster Groves oppose the annexation of Maplewood and Greenwood, and Mr. Peeler says that it will be necessary to overcome this antagonism to the proposed tri-city consolidation.

He is preparing, interefore, to flood Webster Groves with circulars setting forth the advantages of developments from a fourth-class city of 5000 population to one of the third class with twice that number. Mr. Peeler will be aided by the Maplewood Improvement Co., of which H. D. Kendall is president, and by A. F. Pendergast, another Maplewood champion of the Greater Webster Groves movement.

Some time ago a movement to incorporate Maplewood and Greenwood was started, but it was found that the new city would be too close to Webster Groves to incorporate as a city of the fourth class. This led to the plan of asking for annexation to Webster Groves.

BULLDOG IS AN ASSET.

Its Slayer Fined for Destruction of Property.

William Wilson was fined $25 in Justice Campbell's court at De Hodiamont Friday for killing a bulldog belonging to Deputy Sheriff Clarence Campbell. The charge against Wilson was malicious destruction of property. Campbell's dog fastened his teeth on Wilson's shepherd dog one day in Clayton and refused to let go. Wilson tried to choke the bulldog into submission, but could not. He then stabbed the bulldog with his pocket knife, killing it.

He was arrested on the charge of cruelty to animals, but it was discovered that the Court of Appeals had decided that a dog was legally property, rather than an animal.

TRAIN BUMPS THE BUMP.

Iron Mountain Passengers Jarred at Station.

An Iron Mountain train, backing into Union Station at 7:45 a. m. Saturday, crashed into the bumping post on track No. 10, splintering it. The rear coach ran nearly into the Midway fence before the train was stopped.

The air signal given by the conductor, who stood on the rear platform, failed to work, and the engineer was not aware that he had backed too far until he felt the bump. The last coach ran onto the granitoid paving.

Passengers in the car were shaken up, but none was hurt.

AGAMEMNON LAUNCHED.

New British Battleship Has Many New Ideas.

GLASGOW, June 23.—The British battleship Agamemnon of 16,500 tons, was successfully launched here today.

Among the novelties in the construction of the ship are the following: All her guns will be above the upper deck and her heavy guns will be more concentrated in the center of the vessel, while the smaller pieces will be carried on a central platform deck extending about one-third the length of the ship and upwards of 30 feet above the water line, giving great command on all sides of the water around the ship.

The Agamemnon will have cost about $7,500,000 when completed.

LIGHT DEMAND IN LOCAL STOCKS

Easier Tendency on Wall Street Makes Local Brokers Cautious.

CANDY ISSUES ARE FIRM

Second Preferred Stock Makes a Gain on Sales at $85.

Local securities showed little life at the Exchange today, the easier feeling in the Eastern market having a tendency to make speculators cautious. The buying came mostly in small share lots and the price range was irregular.

There was a light demand for United Railways issues and the common stock, after selling at $51.50, dropped to offers at $51.25 and bids at $50.50. The preferred stock was firm on sales at $81.12½ and the bonds brought $88.50 and $88.62½.

National Bank of Commerce at $320 and $321 for small lots, and Missouri-Lincoln Trust at $133.75 and $135.50 were the active issues in that class. Title Trust was in demand at $75 without sales.

National Candy second preferred sold up sharply to $85, but closed the trading offered at $84. The bond list showed a steady range.

Cotton Report.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The first half of the week witnessed a very sharp decline in July, this month losing all its premium over the next crop position and selling below October under active liquidation. Traders seemed to fear delivery day, as it was the general opinion that cotton that would be tendered would be of very low grade. Late crop positions were easier at times in sympathy with July, but on the whole ruled steady. An active spot demand developed at the decline and this, together with continued dry weather in Texas, checked the downward movement. This morning the market opened steady, with values 1 point off to 1 point up, and throughout the greater part of the session trading was very inactive, with prices sagging a little, but on the whole moving within a narrow limit. Cables were better than expected, and the week-end statistics were of a decidedly bullish nature, showing an unexpectedly large decrease in the world's visible supply of American cotton and indicating that if this falling off continues we will go into next season with very small stocks. The weather man failed to show any rains in the drouth section, but there were some predictions of showers in Texas, and traders seemed inclined to await weather developments over Sunday. There were some complaints of grassy fields in portions of the belt and severe hail storms are said to have done considerable damage in Georgia, but on the whole the trade believes that the crop is in good condition and promises large yield. The closing of the market was barely steady.

SECURITIES MARKET IS WEAK AND LOWER

Government Prosecution of Standard Oil Not Relished by Traders.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The stock market opened active and irregular today, with the majority of securities showing declines. The trading was on a liberal scale and the undertone of the list feverish.

The recovery in the late market yesterday before the announcement to the effect that criminal prosecutions were to be instituted against the Standard Oil Co., indicates that temporarily this factor has been discounted in the recent decline forced by the interests who had advance information of its coming, and before the local opening buying orders from this side were placed in the London market.

Traders, however, are inclined to take a pessimistic view of the outlook and are selling the list on all the rallies.

Traders sold the market in the second hour, when it was seen that the support from insiders was light and prices dropped off sharply on the offerings.

Amalgamated Copper and other issues closely connected with the Standard Oil interests reflected the most pressure and had a depressing effect on the entire list.

Commission houses were again taking little part in the proceedings and what trade came from these sources was on the selling side.

The sweep of corporation investigation and legislation throughout the country is daily increasing and the wonder of it all is that the securities markets have not been more depressed than they have.

Outside of the attack on Standard Oil the day's news was, if anything, favorable. The weekly reports of the leading mercantile agencies were optimistic in the extreme and activity in general industry is indicated as almost unparalleled.

The cut in the Southern foundry iron market is not considered seriously by the trade, as all other branches of the steel and iron market show pronounced strength.

Money market conditions show improvement and the bank statement showing an increase in the surplus reserve of $3,853,550, a decrease in loans of $2,318,000 and an increase in cash of over $4,000,000, was the strongest return made by the associated banks in many weeks past.

The crop outlook remains favorable and the harvest has already begun in the winter wheat sections. Rains in the corn belt have materially improved the prospects for this crop.

The selling by the professionals continued in the closing hour and Amalgamated Copper dropped off to near par before influential support was encountered. The offerings in this stock were heavy at all times and forced selling in other sections of the list.

Nearing the closing a moderate rally on short covering took place, but the rally was not held and the closing was soft and at a materially lower level for the day.

WHEAT VALUES DRIFT UPWARD

Too Much Rain in Harvest Section Gives Bulls Encouragement.

OTHER GRAINS EASY

Weather Conditions Are Improved for Both Corn and Oats.

Prices on wheat futures drifted upward today and firm at a small advance. Wet weather conditions in the winter wheat belt, where the harvest is already under way, and less favorable reports from the spring wheat territory were the steadying influences.

Cables were also steadier than expected. Liverpool closing unchanged to ¼d up on wheat and unchanged to ¼d higher on corn. Berlin cables closed ⅝c lower, Budapest ⅝c lower and Paris prices ⅛c to ¼c up.

Local receipts were light and shipments moderate and the cash markets showed a fairly good tone. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 199 cars, against 213 last week, 140 last year and 271 two years ago. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 10,000 bu for one day of the current week.

The estimate world's shipments for Monday are for about 8,000,000 bu, of which Europe will take about 7,300,000 bu. The actual shipments last week were 9,776,000 bu, and those of a year ago 10,736,000 bu. Arrivals of breadstuffs in the United Kingdom during the past week will aggregate about 5,600,000 bu.

Australian shipments for the week were 176,000 bu, against 280,000 bu last week and 240,000 bu last year.

Rain in the corn belt had a depressing effect on corn in spite of the steadier feeling in wheat. Oats showed a slightly easier tone in sympathy.

Primary movement—Receipts wheat, 275,172 bu, against 196,521 bu last year

Patrols are to be seen everywhere and strict martial law is enforced.

Three men, two of whom were Christians, were shot for failing to obey orders to halt.

SIGNOR ROSATI, BAND LEADER, DIES SUDDENLY.

SIGNOR ALBERTO ROSATI.

Col. J. D. Hopkins of Forest Park Highlands received a telegram Saturday announcing the sudden death at Kansas City of Signor Alberto Rosati, director of the Royal Italian Band, which opened the Highlands season this year and played a return engagement in this city ending last week.

The telegram stated that Signor Rosati was taken suddenly ill with appendicitis Friday, and was at once removed to a hospital, where an operation was performed. He died at the hospital Saturday.

Signor Rosati was 28 years old and was the youngest bandmaster playing the principal circuits of this country. He had been a director for six years, making his first appearance in Milan. During the past four years he had put in most of his time at Atlantic City and Asbury Park. He stood high as a musician, and his band was classed as among the best in this country.

It was said Saturday by the business manager of the Royal Italian Band that Sig. Rosati was engaged to marry Miss Nellie Turnwall, the vocal soloist of the organization, and that the wedding was to have taken place this winter at Miss Turnwall's home in Jamestown, N. Y.

The Royal Italian Band had only recently closed a contract to appear in Chicago in August, and Sig. Rosati last week sent to New York to engage 12 additional musicians, to bring the band up to a total membership of 40 for the Chicago engagement, it being his determination to make a big hit in that city.

Two Voters Arrested.

James O'Donnell of 4362 Cook avenue and James Hill of 4325A Page boulevard were arrested at the instance of election judges, who charge them with attempting to vote illegally in the Republican primary election at the polling place at 4370 North Market street in the Twenty-sixth Ward. The judges say the names of Hill and O'Donnell do not appear on the registration books, and that they refused to sign their names so that they might be compared with registration books from other precincts.

33 PUPILS INSANE FROM OVERSTUDY

Pillsbury College Tutor Says Course Is Too Hard for Average Mind.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OWATONNA, Minn., June 23.—There are 33 pupils and teachers in the insane asylums of this State as the direct result of overstudy. This amazing revelation followed the pathetic death of Miss Laura Kelly, the 18-year-old daughter of F. P. Kelly of this city, who became violently insane after delivering her commencement oration, and died a few days later.

Some weeks ago she told her friends that she would go insane and would live only a short time.

Miss Kelly was the handsomest and most intellectual girl in her class. She had studied hard and was regarded by the faculty as the brightest graduate Pillsbury College had ever turned out.

One of her instructors said last night: "Miss Kelly was a bright student in every sense of the word. She was studious, intelligent and a brilliant conversationalist, and I am not sure that the course of studies is not too hard for the average mind. It seems to me that the colleges are cramming too much into their students. Some students discard the studies which are not compatible with them, while others try to master all of them.

"Miss Kelly was of the latter class. Her brain gave way under the strain, as many another has done. There is something wrong with our study course. Pupils should not attempt to master all the branches of study and the faculty should restrict them."

Knackwurst Was Colored With Coal Tar and Manufacturer Is Fined.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Lee Zimmerman of the millionaire bologna manufacturing firm of M. Zimmerman & Co., with factories in this city and New York, pleaded guilty to selling knackwurst colored with coal tar before Magistrate Benton and was fined $50 and costs.

Just after Zimmerman left the courtroom, Abraham Cohn, a small delicatessen dealer, was arraigned for selling adulterated knackwurst. He proved that he purchased the bologna from Zimmerman & Co. Agent Cassidy of the Pure Food and Dairy Department applied for another warrant for Zimmerman.

MISTAKE IN LICENSE LIST DISTRESSES GIRL.

MISS VERDI BIEDERMAN.

When Miss Verdi Biederman of 2630 Montgomery street saw her name in the published lists of marriage licenses, coupled with that of Jan Parko of 1538 South Eighth street, she did not know whether to think she had a dual personality or that there were two girls named Verdi Biederman who were going to be married at the same time.

She had been to the marriage license office, but had gone there with Frederic W. Forthman of 4159 Lee avenue for the purpose of assenting to the issuance of a license for the marriage of Mr. Forthman and herself.

She supposed that such a license had been issued, but the published lists indicated that she had been licensed to wed a man she had never seen, and she was naturally distressed because she did not want to marry Jan Parko, although he had a romantic name, and she did want to marry Mr. Forthman.

She was reassured when she found that the names were correct on the license, and that the only mistake was on the list given out for publication.

The wedding is to take place at 8:30 Saturday evening at the bride's home. Rev. Mr. Jones will perform the ceremony. Only relatives and a few friends will be present. The couple will go to housekeeping at 2315 Hebert street.

Miss Biederman is a daughter of O. J. Biederman, who has been connected with a leading dry goods store for 25 years.

BOY HELPS FATHER ROB HIS EMPLOYERS

Louis Fox Admits System of Thefts by a Lunch Basket.

Louis Fox and his 11-year-old son Samuel are prisoners at the Four Courts, where the father has confessed that he systematically robbed the High Art Clothing Co. at 205 North Broadway, where he was employed, and that he had employed his son as an aid in his thefts.

Detectives have recovered a large quantity of the clothing, and it is expected that still more will be recovered.

Fox admitted to Chief Desmond that he had robbed his employers, but said that his son had aided him innocently, not knowing that he was stealing.

Fox lives with his family at 914 North Thirteenth street. According to his confession, Samuel daily brought him his dinner in a basket. When Fox would finish his dinner he would place in the bottom of the basket some garment that he had stolen, and covering it with a piece of paper and the dishes, the son could leave the store without arousing suspicion. This, Fox told Chief Desmond, continued for several years.

Neighbors became suspicious before Fox's employers knew that they were being robbed, and word reached headquarters. Detectives Cremin, McFarland, Callahan and Finan Friday night recovered a large number of coats, vests, overcoats and other garments which Fox admitted he had stolen. Fox's employers did not know of the thefts until after the arrests were made and the property recovered.

WOMEN DRAGGED BY SCARED HORSE

Mrs. B. J. Syarse and Daughter Cling to Wagon Shafts Three Blocks.

Hanging to the shafts of a wagon, with their feet dragging only a few inches from the front wheels, Mrs. B. J. Syarse of 502 St. Louis avenue, and her daughter, Mrs. J. Dunn of 109 North Thirteenth street, East St. Louis, were dragged two blocks by a runaway horse at Denverside Friday evening.

Both women were bruised and cut by rocks as they were dragged over the road. The older woman's right leg may have been permanently injured. Blood vessels were broken and the flesh was lacerated. Both are in bed.

Mrs. Syarse and Mrs. Dunn had driven from the mother's grocery on St. Louis avenue to Denverside to look at property there. They drove a spirited horse drawing a heavy wagon and were returning when they crossed a ditch at Nineteenth street, near Market. The front wheels sank into the ditch, and the wagon came to a stop so abruptly that the women were thrown from the seat.

Each grasped the shaft on either side of the horse and held on so that their feet just cleared the wheels. The horse became frightened and ran away, but the women dared not release their hold.

Several attempts were made by pedestrians to stop the horse, but the women were not rescued until the animal had run three blocks. Two men stepped into the middle of the road and risked their lives to stop the runaway.

Physicians said Saturday that both women are seriously hurt, but will likely recover.

KILLED IN THE FIELD.

Illinoisan, Ill, Falls From Corn Elevator.

John L. Vogelpohl fell from his seat on a corn cultivator at Waterloo, Ill., struck his head on an iron crossbar and was killed Friday afternoon. His father was near and picked up the body, carrying it home.

Vogelpohl is said to have been an epileptic and is thought to have had an attack while he was driving in the field. The Coroner will hold an inquest.

WHAT IT MEANS

A movement is now on foot, co-operated in by almost every responsible man and woman in the district embraced, to incorporate the territory from the western city limits to Clayton and from Washington University to north of the Olive Street Road into a city of the fourth class. The great City of St. Louis is fast crowding its finest residence district over the western city line. In a few years at most, this territory will undoubtedly be taken into the City of St. Louis. If left until then, it will have grown up with crooked alleys and streets and every sort of undesirable environment. To incorporate it into a city of the fourth class NOW means that first, proper police regulations will be supplied to a great district rapidly building up with beautiful homes now practically unprotected; proper fire protection; proper sewerage and drainage; the laying out of the streets and alleys in a uniform high-class manner. This means to St. Louis that the most beautiful and in every way desirable part of the city for the future home of our growing population will be taken in hand NOW, put under strict government, improved, beautified, drained and sewered, insuring the grandest residence district of any city in America. If left to run wild it will become instead a danger spot and a menace, unsewered unpoliced, unprotected. But a very few years ago King's Highway and Union Boulevard were open fields. In a very few years our finest residence district will have crowded out to Clayton over those beautiful hills. A million population would mean the building of St. Louis solid out to Clayton. Shall it be prepared with a little foresight now? Or shall it be left to take care of itself and later cost millions of money and years of time to straighten and improve the unregulated growth? St. Louis could not enlarge its borders in much under four years if it started now. In four years this magnificent territory in which are located Washington University, The Berideth Tract, Parkview, University Heights and many beautiful properties absolutely necessary to the future growth and beauty of our great city will either be made or unmade. To make it, now is the time to begin. Straight and beautiful boulevards and streets, leading out into Clayton and the county, complete sewer system, proper regulation of growth and proper protection can be provided at little cost now; later, they can be provided only at great cost, if at all. We feel that we have the good will and co-operation of every responsible man and woman who looks to the future of St. Louis as the grandest city of homes and enterprise in America.

THE CORRECT DRESS

For a grand occasion the proper dress for a lady is en train and modestly decollete. If in a public hall the floor should be waxed and burnished to protect the costly costumes from soiling. In a private mansion, Turkish rugs and natural wood borders finished with To-Wauk-On Varnish Stain are en regle and the correct dress for a floor. High quality dressing becomes a floor as well as a person, and one without the other disturbs the harmony of the nervous system and produces consequent discomfort of mind and body.
